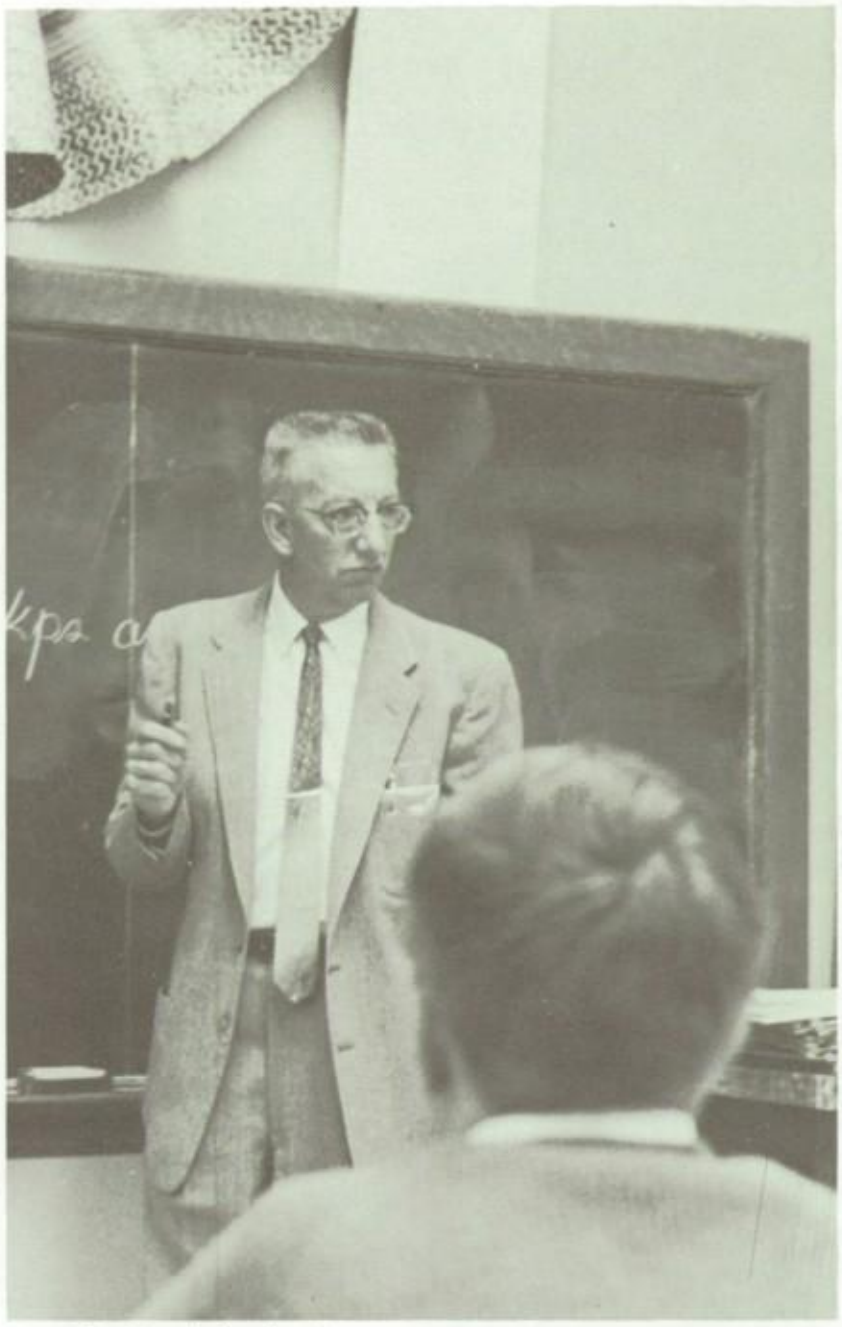
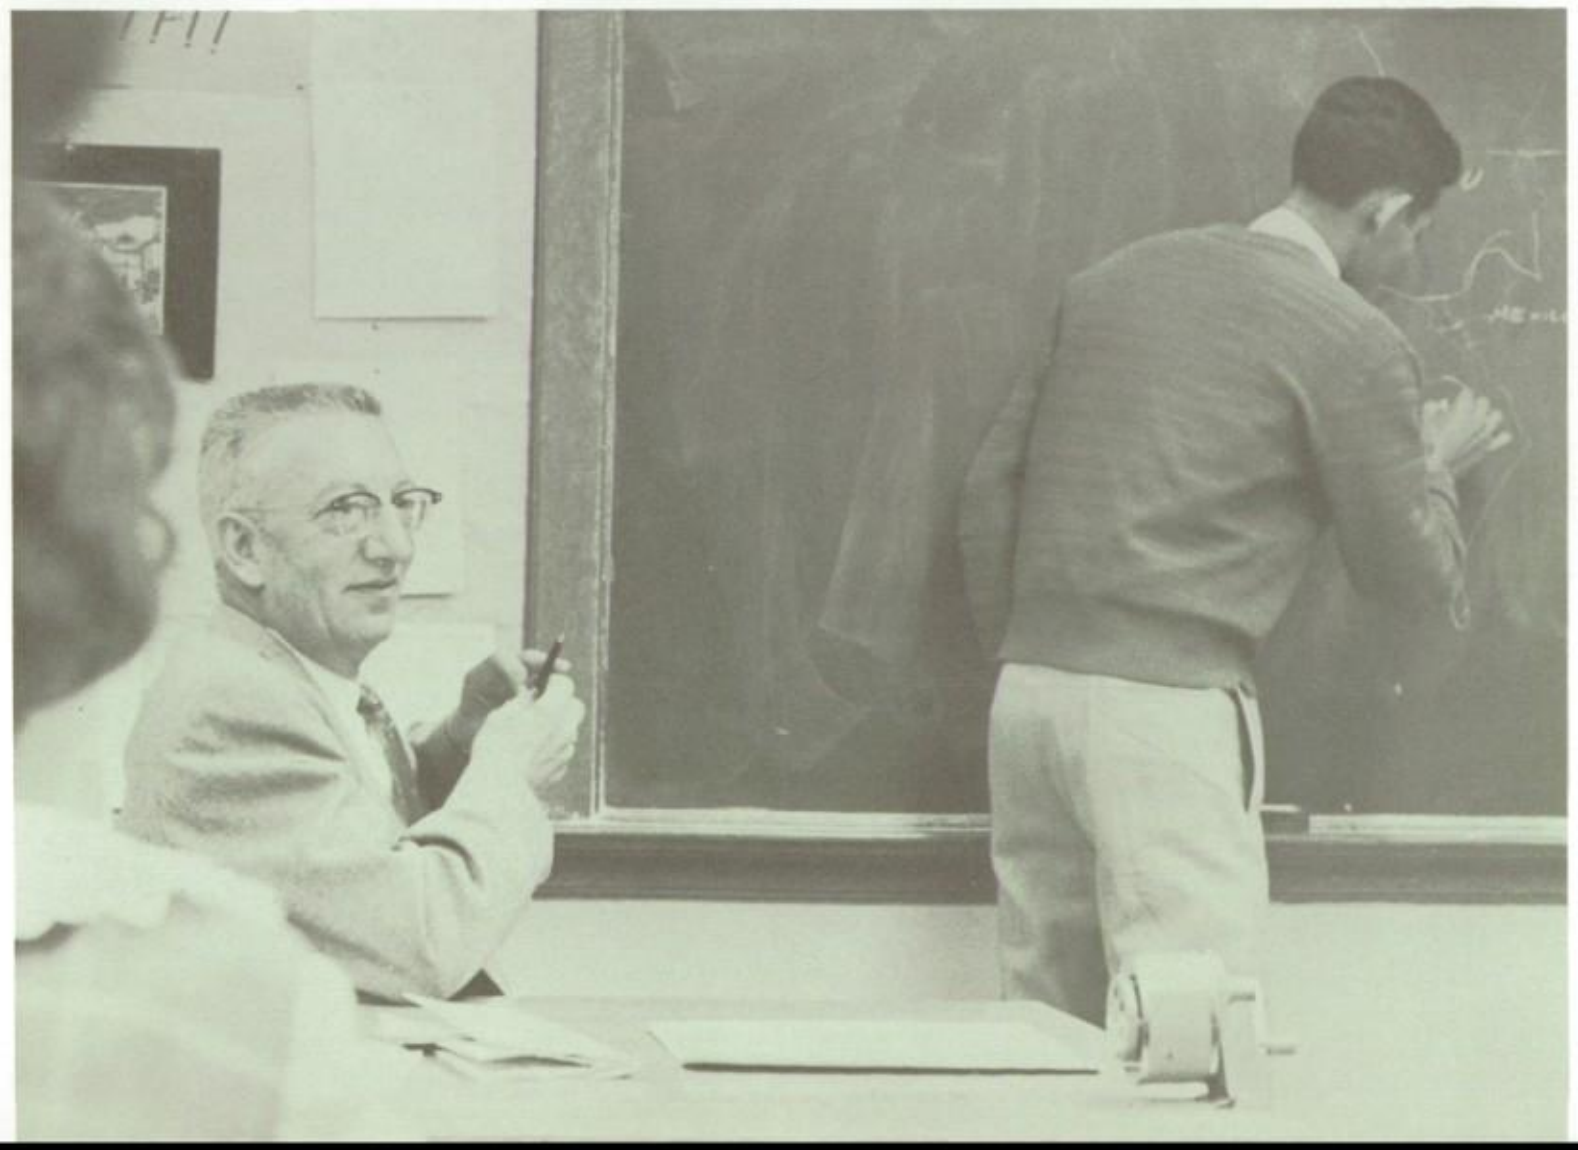
Foreign Language



Dr. John Matties' recipe for a successful Spanish class is humor and interest, tied together with a thorough knowledge of his subject.



For three weeks this fall, Spanish conversation was heard by many East students in the halls, classrooms, and even during a pep assembly, as Angels welcomed four teenagers from Equador during "Operation Amigo." Here Kleber Coronel and Guido Velez, two of our visitors, sit in on Dr. Matties' V-VI Spanish class.

Precise intonation of Spanish is accomplished through audio-lingual methods used by Miss Kathryn Lace. All aspects of the language are covered in her extensive library.

Language is an instrument in the development of our ability to share our thoughts, moods, desires, emotions — common to all people.

Audio-lingual teaching which stresses hearing before seeing is a new step in language at East.

This year Spanish was emphasized by exchange student Amalia Marcet of Argentina and four "Amigos" from Ecuador: Kleber Coronel, Hugo Montoya, Adasa Alban, and Guido Velez.

Industrial Arts

Whether one's creative desires and abilities are in the field of woodwork, leather-work, or metal-work, there is opportunity for expression in East's Industrial Arts department. Boys are able to make a great variety of useful articles ranging from brass chandeliers to bowling pins. activities

Student participation is the important factor which enriches not only their lives but all others —

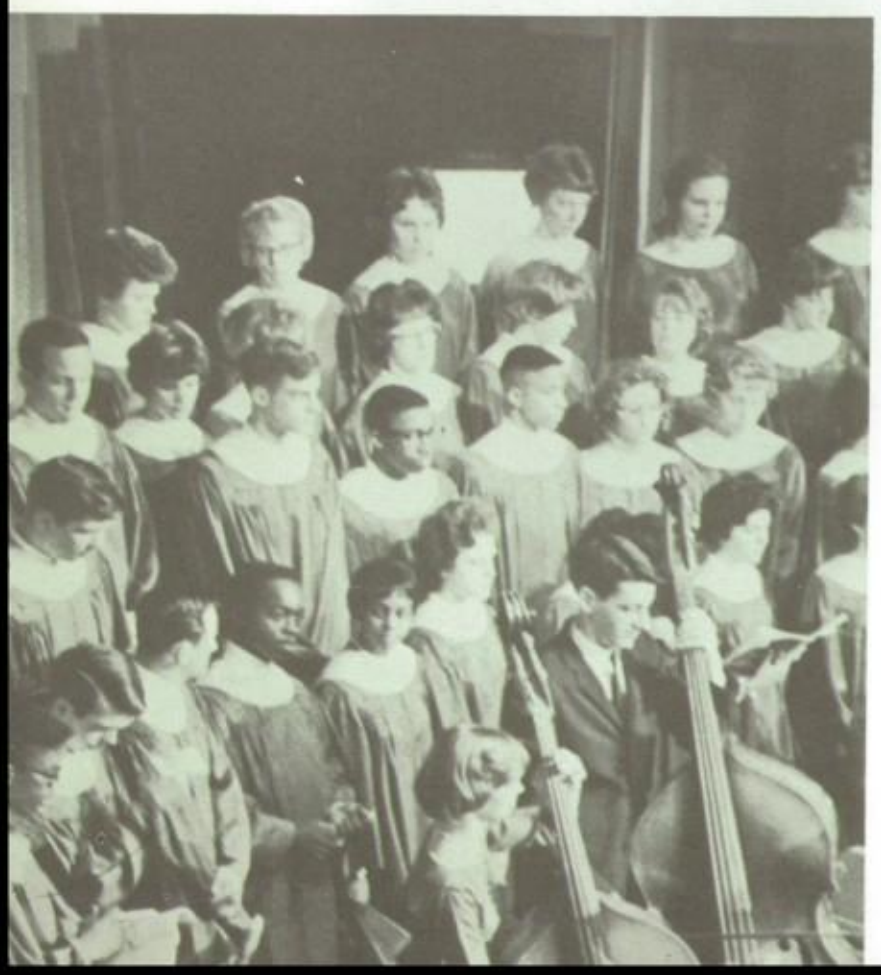
the warm rhythm of our music groups and the beat of the band.

Music Groups

The Angelaires, a select madrigal group, brilliantly belt out a number especially adapted to a limited group of voices. With so few members, there is little room for mistakes.



Most difficult of all organized singing is the large choir. Mrs. Marion Padboy, director, schedules many performances in school, church and community organizations for the busy choir.

Both the vocal and instrumental music departments of East have added immeasurably to the enjoyment of students who participate in and who listen to their many programs. Under the direction of Mr. Kay Shadwell, Concert Band and Orchestra have entertained at assemblies, sports events, and separate evening concerts.

Mrs. Marion Padboy has directed the vocal music groups in a variety of activities and performances. Concert Choir, Beginning Choir, and Girl's Ensemble have entertained audiences at school and at extracurricular functions. A selected group from Concert Choir, the Angelaires, have performed in many musical programs during the year.

Mr. Kay Shadwell controls a delicate decrescendo in a Nutcracker Suite ballet. Carole Foster did her rendition of the ballet in an exceptionally fine program.

Long hours of practice at school as well as at home are required to turn the discords into regulated vibrations which our ears interpret as music.

All School Show

Hoboes Larry Coffee and Al Titus serve as the adhesive of the show. Seeking employment, they blunder into the Cherub Circus.

"No, no! That's not right! . . . smile when you're on stage." So continues the countless rehearsals before that opening of "another show." False faces, speckled costumes, even a monkey: mix it up and the outcome is Cherub Circus, this year's theme for the traditional All-School Show. The vivid stage settings of bright, warm colors for the day scenes and fluorescent colors for the black light night scenes conveyed a spirit of mirth with tents, wagons, game booths and a ferris wheel. The job of judging the tryouts and amassing a huge conglomeration of acts into an orderly, continuous show was done by an industrious trio. Correcting flatting singers was Mrs. Marion Padboy. Correcting flatting instruments was Mr. Kay Shadwell. Correcting flatfooted dancers and directing the entire production was Mrs. May Dunkin.

Synchronized hands and feet of the drill team make crisp snaps and clicks to the delight of the audience.

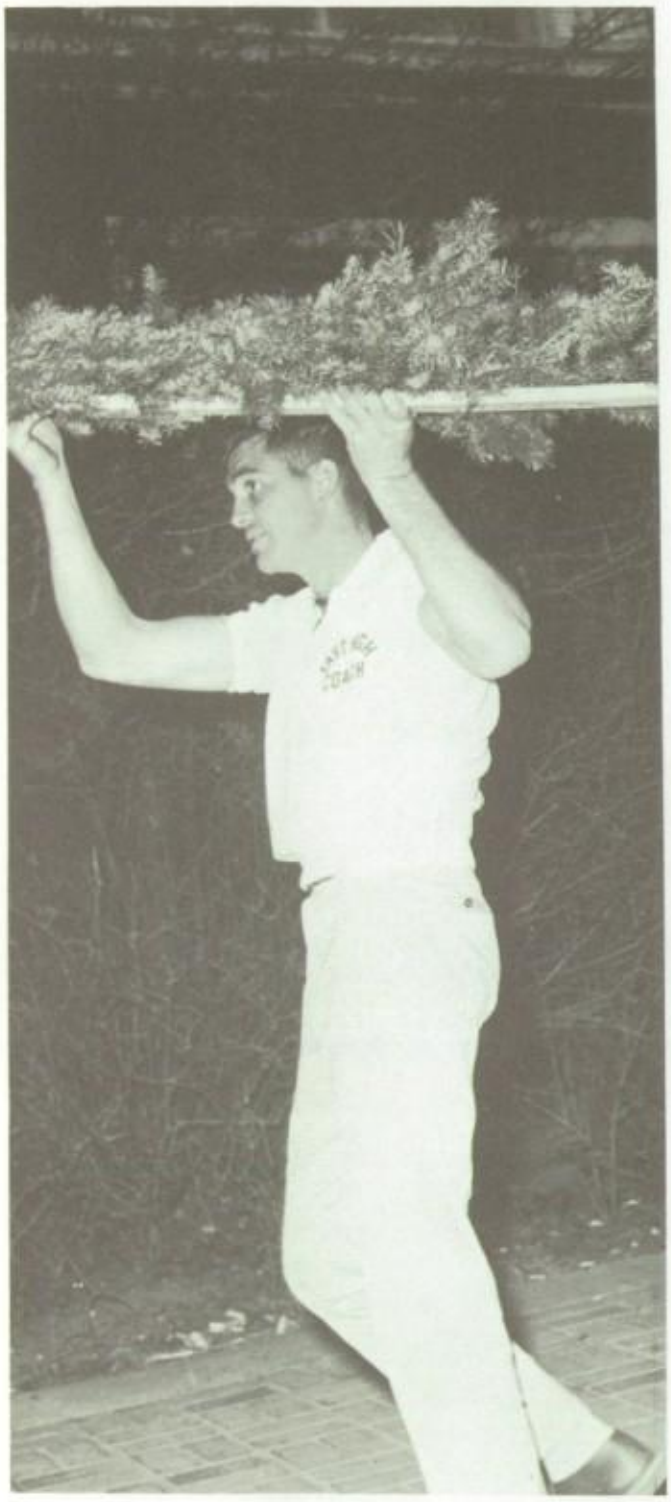
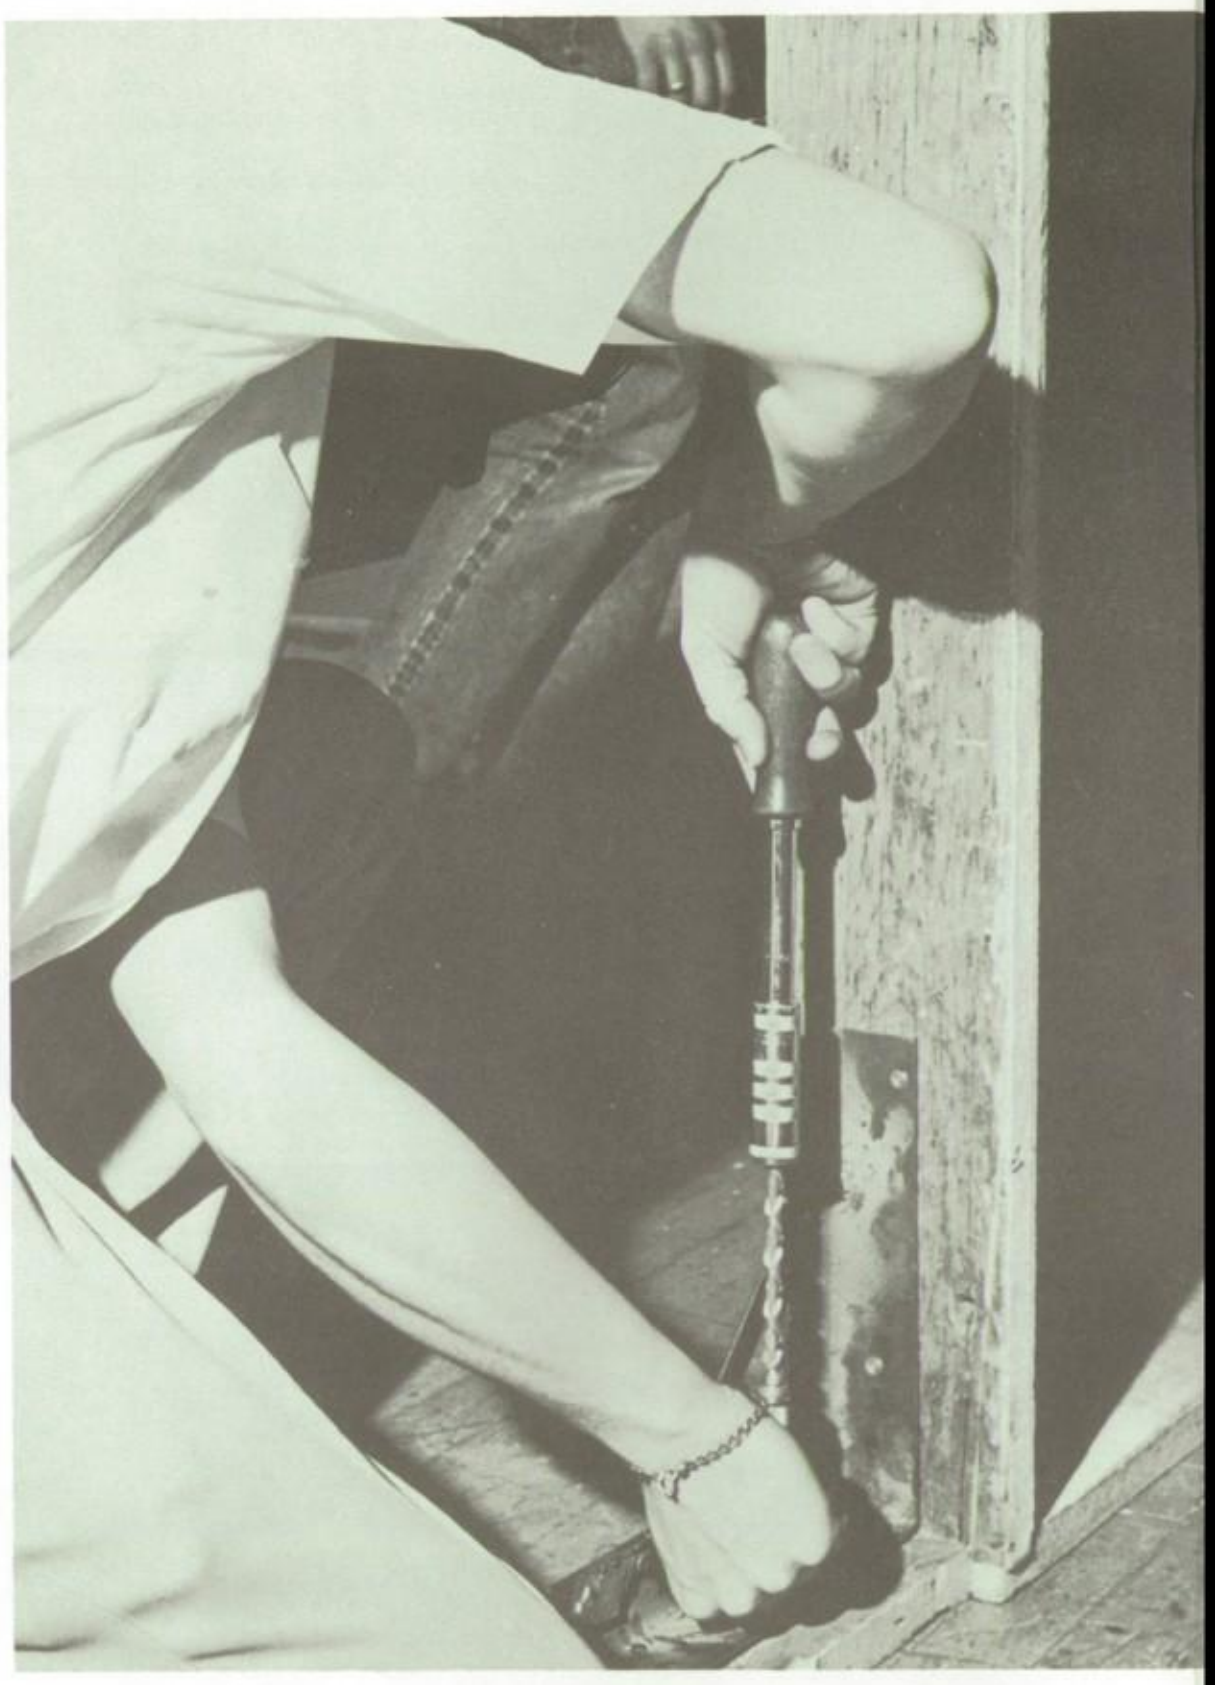
Stage Crew

O Tannebaum! O Tannebaum! hums Mr. William Holmes as he evergreens the school for the Christmas holidays.





Wielding a hand-drill skillfully, a stage crew member puts up the foundation for a Drama Club play setting.

Clutching to a ledge on the tower or balancing on a twenty-foot ladder are just two of the many odd positions in which stage crew members can be seen. These behind-the-scenes workers perform a necessary but sometimes thankless job. Without them, the stage would be a cold, barren, and empty place, a platform without the enticing scenery and lighting which can be taken for granted. Many skills are needed to put together the lighting and decorations at a dance, or the setting for a stage play, or the background for assemblies and fashion shows. Stage Crew also helps put up the Christmas lights in front of the school, and they paint the streets red and white for Color Day.

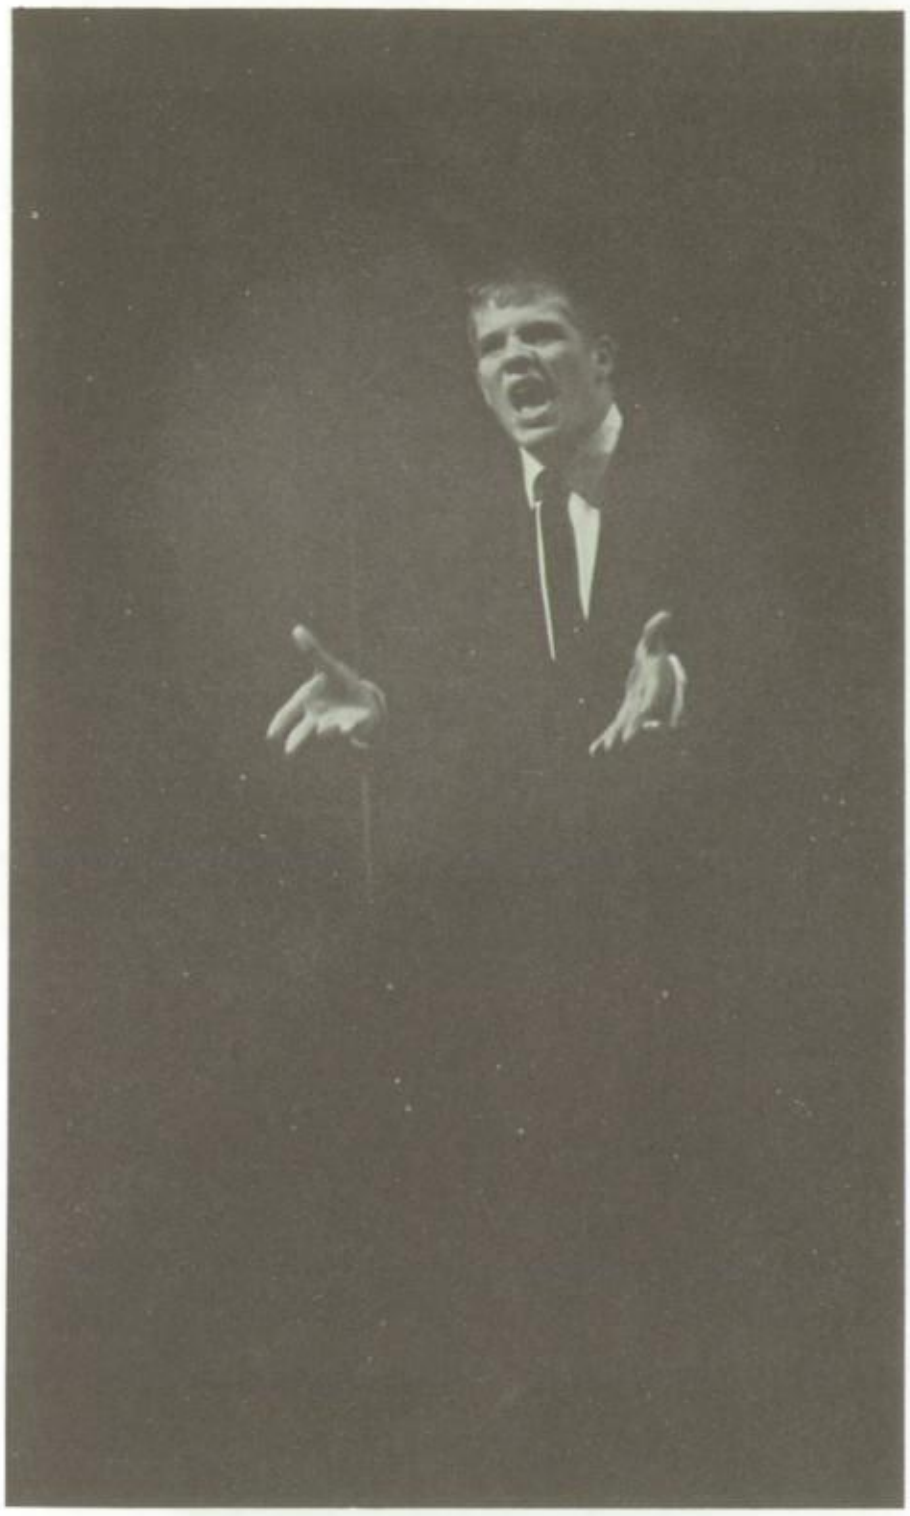
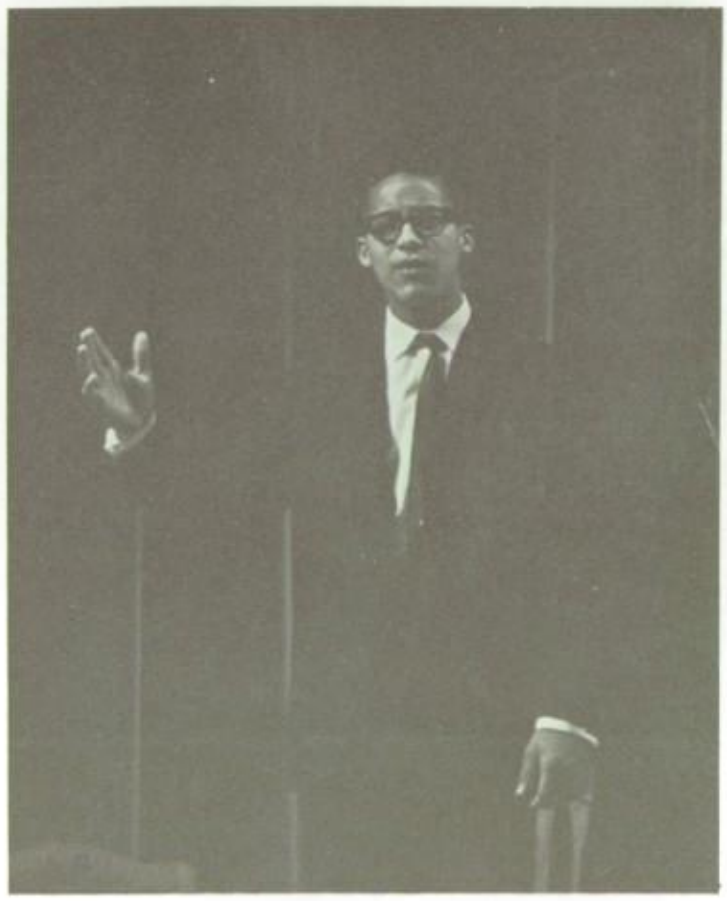
Woodbury Oratory Contest



The judges were particularly impressed by Steve Robinson's impassioned delivery of Clarence Darrow's "Plea for Mercy" from his celebrated defense of Leopold and Loeb in their trial for the murder of Bobby Franks.

The Nintieth Woodbury Oratorical Contest was one of the outstanding assemblies of the year. Long practice, precise memorization, and the experienced coaching of Mrs. Genevieve Kreiner prepared aspirants for the finals from which eight were chosen to vie for the coveted Woodbury medal. A special ninety-minute assembly was arranged so that the contestants could deliver their speeches uninterrupted. Steve Robinson was awarded the Woodbury medal for his dramatic interpretation of Clarence Darrow's A Plea for Mercy. The unusually difficult task of judging the orations was handled by a panel which included a former East High teacher, Mrs. Virginia Stearns, and a former head boy, Mr. Don Blanchard.

Peter Blunt delivers "Napoleon the Little," the first of Victor Hugo's bitter satires on the founder of France's second empire.



"Toussaint l'Ouverture," Wendell Phillips' famous discourse describing the valiant leader of the Haiti revolution, was rendered by Steve Harrell.

Wolcott Reading Contest

Each year seven girls, nervous and hopeful, stand before a full auditorium of critics to gain approval for their impromptu readings. On April 5, Dee Douglas was awarded the Wolcott Medal for her interpretation of a selection from The Milk Pitcher by Howard Brubecker.

Karen Dahlstrom, Lydia Szwec, and Janice Wright congratulate Dee Douglas on her selection as Wolcott winner.

On March 7, 8, and 9, "Angel Airs," the PTA fashion show, was held in the Denver Dry Tea Room. Twenty-five senior girls promenaded down the runway in spring fashions from the Denver Dry. Five male mannequins were also on display in everything from plaid swimming trunks to sweaters with brass buttons.

Delegate Assembly

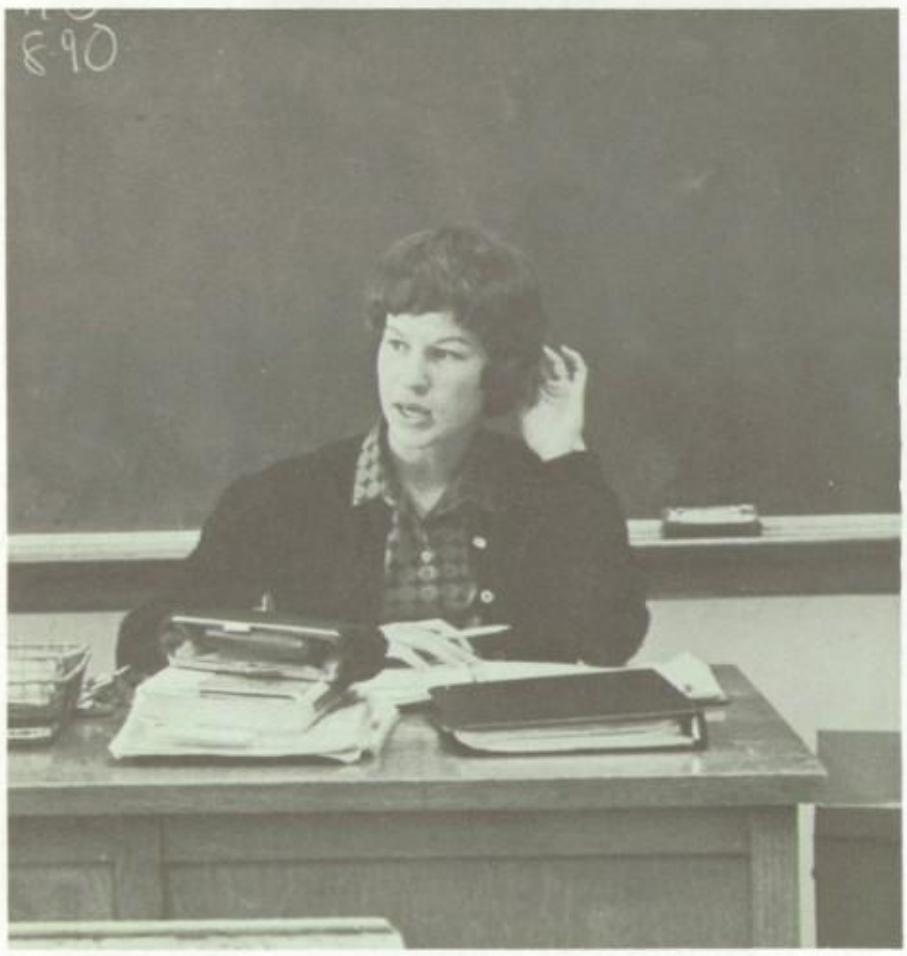
Charlotte Wytias is engrossed in wrapping canned goods for the White Christmas Drive, a charity project sponsored by Delegate Assembly.

Acting as both Delegate Assembly and Student Council sponsor, Miss Alice Wolter finds herself involved in many pertinent discussions.

Bud Bourke and Charlotte Wytias briefly survey a possible solution to the lunchroom problem.

Delegate Assembly is composed of one representative from each first hour class. The body is a sounding board for student opinion concerning administration policies or problems that arise among the students. Parking lot difficulties were spurred to a quick resolution with the help of the assembly and the cooperation of the student body. The members do a great deal of work in selling fee cards, athletic tickets, Angelus coupons, Drama Club tickets, and All-School Show tickets.

Spurred on by a feud with Spotlight, several members of Student Council debate proposed constitutional changes.



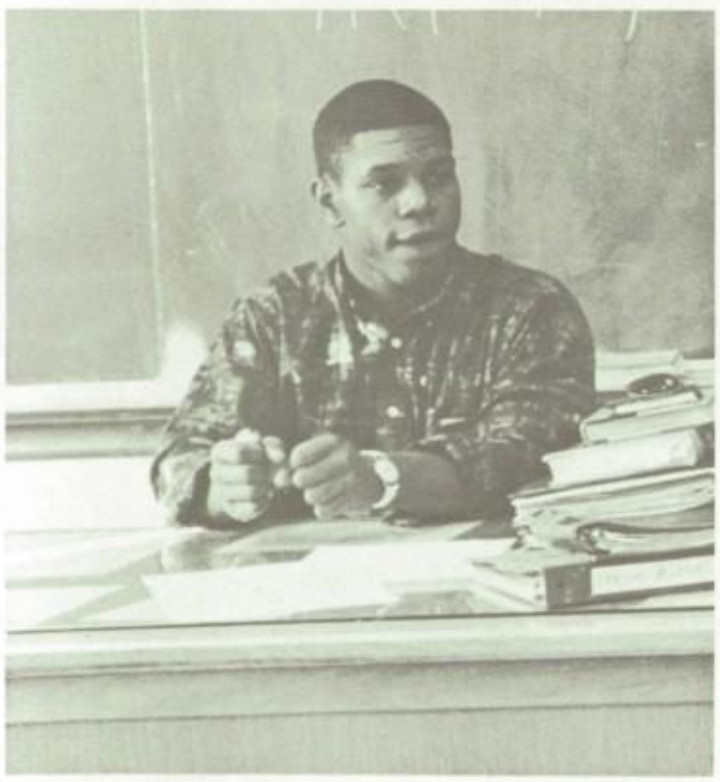
Head Girl Mona Montes tactfully guides the discussion to an effective conclusion.

Student Council

Integrating the qualities of good citizenship and leadership, Student Council is part of the educational program in democratic practice. During the school year 1962-63, the group sponsored the traditional Howdy Day, the Sweetheart Dance, the United Fund Drive, the athletic award assemblies, sophomore orientation, and elections. Student Council also participated in Operation Amigo, a student exchange program with Ecuador. On a recommendation from the previous year's council, booster buttons were introduced at the end of the football season. Criticized by a series of Spotlight editorials, Student Council began a serious program to inform the students of its activities and to examine its constitution. An article describing the purpose of the organization was published in the Spotlight and a suggestion box for the use of students was installed. Special projects for the year were a revisal of the points system and an investigation leading toward a more effective method of parking lot administration.

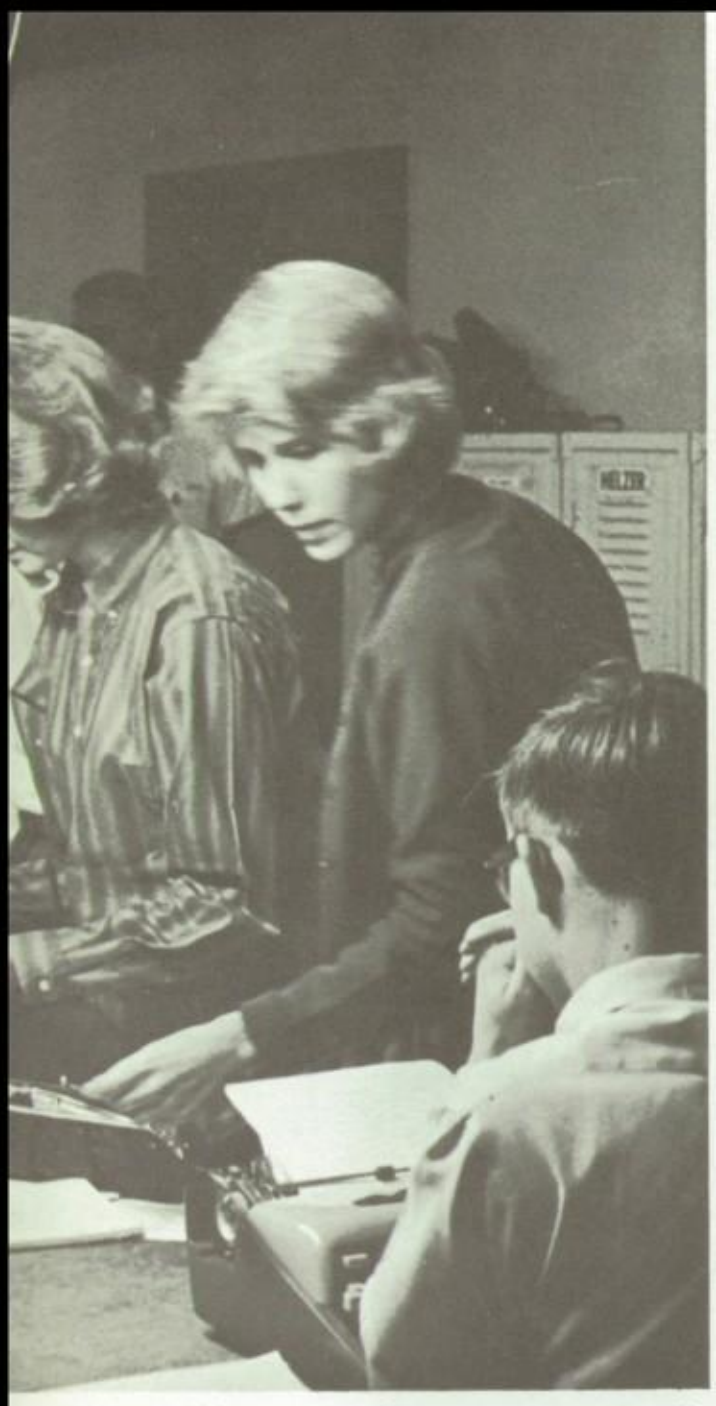
Wild possibilities are pondered by Pat Wilson, Sue Harris, and Sue Allen as they deck East's halls with Christmas cheer.

After serious consideration, the possibility of using Duke Clark as a Christmas tree ornament was rejected.



The Sweetheart Dance has its humble beginning, fostered by Head Boy Walt Oliver and Student Council.

Miss Alice Wolter, Student Council sponsor, suggests to Janet Benish one means of decorating David for the holiday season.



Miss Glowes, Spotlight sponsor, supervises the preliminaries of producing the paper.

Making up the "dummy" is the next step of newspaper production.

Life magazine writes, "Coming hard over the horizon, just beginning to make his presence and his power felt, is a new breed of American. He is filled with purpose and he thinks on a scale that often scares his elders. He demands responsibility, not because he craves authority but because he can get the job done. He is, at this moment in history, starting to take over our destiny."

The 1962-63 SPOTLIGHT staff has approached this year with that philosophy utmost in mind. Their keynote has been a search for truth, not popularity. Their voice has been loud, and their hands busy, picking cotton from unwilling ears. Their goal has been to bolster the necessary and eradicate the obsolete. Their year has been one of fruitful turbulence. Their motto: "Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition."

Peter, Paul, and Mary

Peter, Paul and Mary, the popular folk singing group, were chosen by the student body this year to select its Angelus King and Queen. Photographs of six sophomores were selected by unbiased judges and then sent to Peter, Paul and Mary. The trio selected Miss Pat Patterson and Mr. Hugh Moore as the couple they felt best represented the typical high school student.

Red and White Day

Unified by the theme "Remember When," the 1963 edition of Red and White Day continued the revered tradition of semi-organized madness and unbridled spirits which characterizes Color Day. The parade, one of the largest ever to grace the Esplanade, was titled "Through the Ages." All three classes, clubs, first hour classes, and other organizations displayed the fruits of wild and creative imaginations with colorful entries into the three categories of float competition. The faculty joined the classes in presenting a skit based on the theme, "That Wonderful Year." A complementary contrast to the feverish activity of the day was offered by the dignified May Queen crowning ceremony which climaxed the assembly. Afternoon entertainment for most Angels was provided by the city track meet dubbed "For the Record."

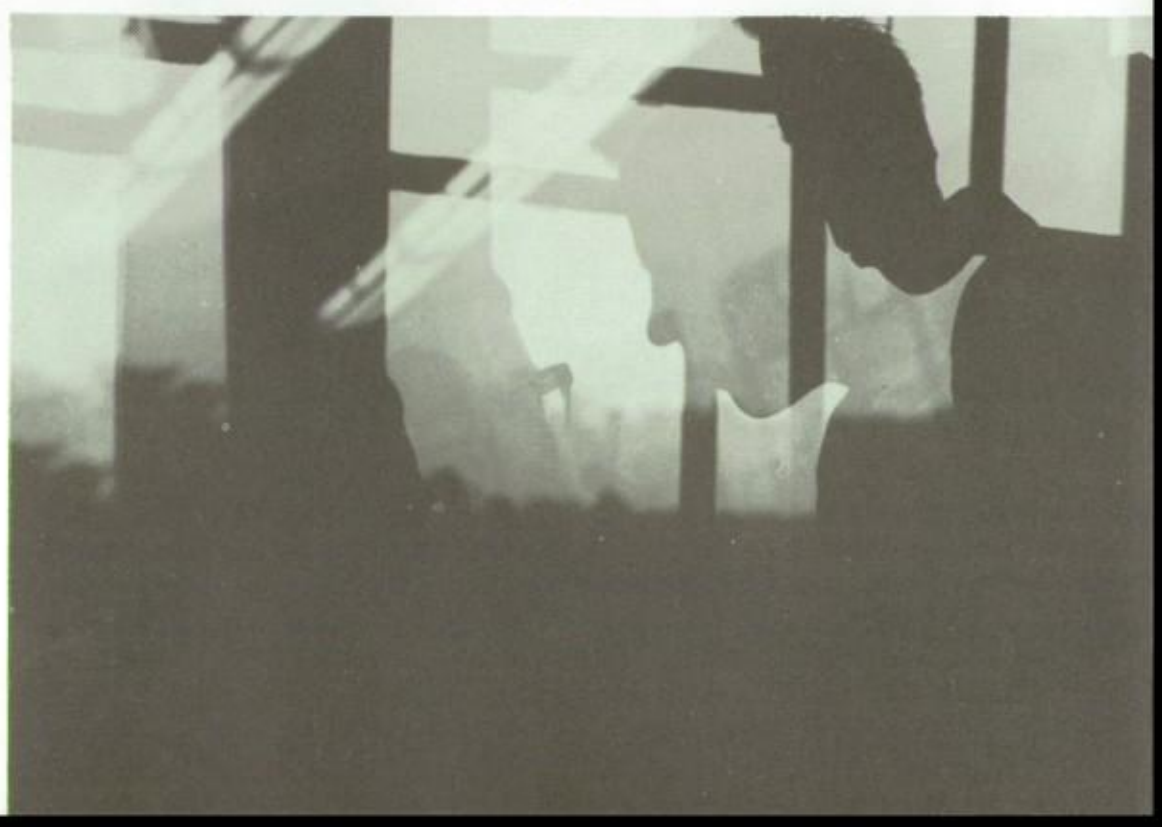
Mr. Ralph Johnson, director and sponsor, makes suggestions to JoAnn Soker on her performance.



Drama is the grownup version of the little children's "Let's pretend!" Grease paint, memorized lines and an inclination toward hamming is all one needs to be an actor. Drama club members had a chance to ham it up in Noel Coward's comedy, Hay Fever. The three act stage play was a far cry from just "pretending"; it was well executed through months of rehearsals. For the more seriously inclined actors, The Crucible, by Arthur Miller, was presented in the spring. Along with these two major activities, Drama Club also produced a children's show, visited dress rehearsals at the Bonfils theater, and contributed their makeup talent to the All-School Show.

"Hay Fever" features JoAnn Soker as the maid, with Dee Douglas . . .

Speech Club

Barbara Weinstock evaluates the Common Market in an inflamed delivery.

Miss Carole Barclay, a true humorist, laughs at Barbara Weinstock's fiery jokes.

Conversation is so rapid and generally so little premeditated that most people do not take time to analyze and improve their speech habits. The Speech Club tries through individual speeches to point out the importance of poise, diction, and tone intensity. The members gain an awareness of voice quality, eye movement, and audience reaction. They learn to avoid hackneyed phrases, to put contrast and emphasis in their voices, as well as to logically organize and document what they have to say. In regional speech meets, the club took part in debating, literary interpretation, discussion, and extemporaneous speaking.

Sparks of thought are kindled in the minds of George Lackeman and Michael Perdue.

Future Teachers of America

P. B. Smith explains during an FTA assembly how to raise cucumbers.

Perhaps the prime requisite for a teacher is the ability to get along with the students.. The Future Teachers of America club incorporates this as their major philosophy. The emphasis on social relations leads to explorations of other occupations such as administrator, social worker, speech therapist, and working with developmental children. Speakers — teachers, of course — and films give greater insight into the requirements and duties of the teacher. This year an assembly was presented to the student body in which Earl Reum spoke on the preparedness of teachers and backed up his point by calling on three teachers to make impromptu speeches.

International Relations

Marilyn Biggs, president of IR, plans the overthrow of Fidel.

Charlotte Wytias assumes the role of conscientious objector.

Actively engaged in the U.N. Assembly, Model U.N., World Affairs, and D.U. Conferences, International Relations Club decides the mock fate of this world.

High School Red Cross

Miss Judy Rountree's Junior Red Cross club has completed a very successful and serviceable year. A talent show for patients at Fitzsimons Hospital, a visit to a rest home, and the making of flags for the Red Cross were a few of many activities undertaken by this active club. Since they are affiliated with the National Red Cross, East's JRC Club members become acquainted with the significance of that organization's work and are able to appreciate the value of serving others.

Attention, Doctors Kildare and Casey! Mrs. Schwarzler's energetic Pre-Med Club may be grooming someone to take your place! This club offers its members an opportunity to learn a little about many branches of medicine. Through lectures delivered by qualified doctors and through field trips to some of Denver's hospitals, Pre-Med club becomes more aware of the sacrifices as well as the glamour that make up the medical profession.

Distributive Education

Customers register their complaints to understanding DE members at the Fashion Bar.

East's Distributive Education Club was chosen as "Outstanding Club of the Year" as a result of their performance at the University Hills Fashion Bar. The club members took over the store for a day, making use of the sales techniques they had been learning all year. This is the second consecutive year that East's DE club has taken top honors over the other Denver high schools. Last year's Distributive Education club president, Jim Taylor, was elected National DE president, bringing further recognition to the club.

"Now, if I move my knight, that will take care of his pawn or I could move my queen and . . . I'm ruined!" mutters Ronald Brainerd.

"The intricacy of the game," says Mr. Milton Lindblom, "is increased greatly by the varying powers possessed by the different men."

"Checkmate!" screams an enthusiastic player as he moves his rook into the coup de grace. His red-faced opponent folds up the red-and-black board and mutters something about goodnight until another evening. High interest and scientific meditation keep the duals frequent and exciting. The better players can try their skill in the interschool Boettcher Tournament held each spring.

Personal research above and beyond the call of duty is characteristic of the spirit of the club. They supplement their personal findings with speakers, films in dashing, electrifying color (the series lasted for several weeks), and field trips to surrounding places of scientific interest such as the Martin Company, the Seismograph Station of the School of Mines, the National Bureau of Standards, the missile installations on the Lowry bombing range, and the United Air Lines training center.

A supervised bull session may describe Symposium club. The members discuss a huge range of topics from decapitations to capitals, but unlike most bull sessions which easily run into digressions, the topic is limited by a moderator. Opinions are welcome, but they must be backed by logical thought. There is rarely a right or wrong; the persuasiveness of a side is dependent on the force of the arguments. A free interchange of ideas leads to stimulating, if not highly animated, discussions.

Mr. James Nichols nails an evasive thought.

Mr. Arthur Bragg coordinates all club activities in regard to meeting dates and places.

Dorothy Davies, President of Inter-Club Council, asks the club presidents to evaluate the group's functions for the year. Besides organizing the annual All-Clubs Open House and the banquet for club officers, the Council also compiled a roster of each club's purpose and activities and initiated a weekly club bulletin.

Camera Club

Various uses of filters are explained by Mr. Melvin Spurlin to Bob Marsolek and other camerabugs.

The Camera Club is dedicated to shooting people — on film only, of course. They have seen movies on styling, posing, and snapping, and have put their knowledge to use on field trips. The club also sponsored an exhibit of Salon Prints in the Main Hall at the beginning of the year. The only time that their pictures got "fogged up" was when they went up to the Tower to photograph the surrounding area on a stormy day. Through their club, these shutter-bugs find pleasure and get experience in handling their "deadly weapons."

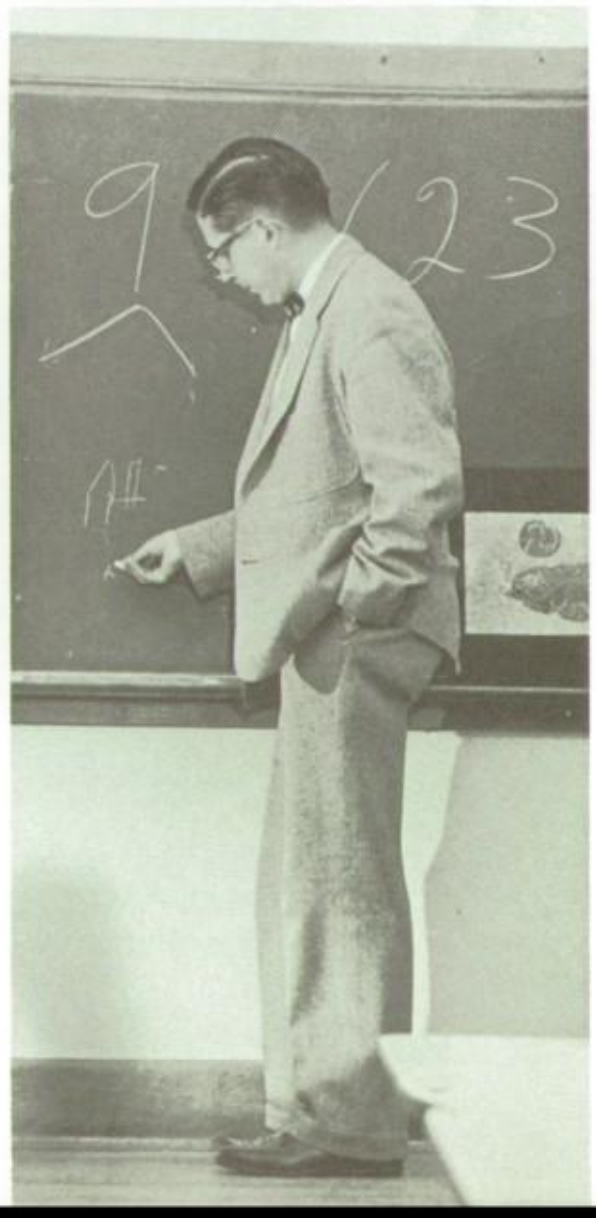
Calligraphy is aptly executed by Mr. Keith McKenzie.



From Merry-Go-Round sets to "Merry Christmas" decorations, the Art club has had a colorful year. Alternating lectures and experience workshops, Circulo De-Arte members put into practice what they have learned about portrait painting, creative photography, new ways to wrap Xmas presents, and other applications of art. As their club project for the year, Angel artists devoted over three hundred hours of painting to set the cheerful carnival scene for the All-School Show. Landscape art was emphasized by a "paint-and-play" sketching field trip to Central City and Russell Canyon. The year was climaxed by the annual all-school art show with the many aspiring artists of East displaying their work in colorful, talented, and provocative exhibits.

Sue Allen and Kris Holm enjoy a colorful interpretation of Picasso's caricatures.

It has become a vogue to sing, chant, and listen to folk songs. The Counterpoints Club has caught the fever with many outside folk singers such as Lydia Wood. They have enriched the music appreciation of the student body with the ecstatic performances of the Colorado University men's and women's glee clubs and the Columbia University glee club. As for themselves, they enjoy just to sing, and during Christmas, they sang for the shoppers on the Cherry Creek Shopping Center mall.

"Gaudeamus igitur iuvenes dum sumus" is the philosophy which Latin scholars in the Junior Classical League follow as they present skits and participate in other saturnalian activities for their Christmas and Ides of March celebrations. The club also edits a monthly newspaper and attends a state convention, where members take prizes in translation, mythology, and other Latin talent competitions.

Mr. Arthur Bragg and Mr. Jack Beardshear share compliments on the cherry cobbler.

Fifty senior girls meet every Monday morning, wearing a red badge and concealing a yawn, to carry out the tradition of service to East and to the community. These Seraph Sisters donate a period each day to work in an administrative office at East. One of their annual duties is introducing the new sophomore girls to East. In addition to community service projects, they present the first dance of the year, give a dessert for the faculty and, with the Pre-Law Club, present the senior return.

The Knit-Wits, sponsored by Mrs. Williamson, encourage friendship among the girls and render service to East by varied projects. At their regular meetings, the girls display articles which they have completed and help beginners with knitting instructions and techniques. A speaker from May-D&F described the many aspects of knitting to the group at one of the more formal meetings.

These knitters made scarves for the children at Ridge Home, assembled an afghan, stuffed a float for Color Day, and created a knitting circle for all the girls so that they could get to know each other. Pot luck dinners for the members were also arranged during the year.

According to the Constitution, "The Pre-Law Club shall be a boys' club for those interested in law and school service. It will strive to solidify and clarify their interest, and give them a common meeting ground for discussion." However, strict constructionist scruples didn't limit the scope of Pre-Law's activities. In fact, the prevailing M.O. was no scruples. Programs varied from speakers on legal insanity to a bull session on religion to a karate demonstration. The school benefited from the infinite genius of Pre-Law boys through the club's co-sponorship of the Graduate Tea, ushering at the Woodbury Contest, and presentation of worthwhile assemblies.

Co-sponsors Mr. John Auger and Mr. Rex Craig expended super-human efforts endeavoring to keep the club's creative energies channelled in the proper directions, but Pre-Law members still enjoyed a healthy social life. A "Winter Carnival," a graduate stag party, and many other affairs, discreetly called "parties," filled the social calendar which culminated in the Annual Spring Banquet.

Highlighting the year were the Pre-Law mock trials, held twice each year in Judge Gilliam's court. In these trials, members had an opportunity to demonstrate their qualifications for the bar, among other things; and applicants attempted to rectify all of their past sins and misdemeanors.

Tri-Hi-Y

From doughnut sales for the rejuvenation of the angel to wrapping Christmas presents for Children's Hospital, Tri-Hi-Y members search for ways to serve East and the community. Since the group is affiliated with YMCA, Tri-Hi-Y fulfills its religious goals by attending a different church service each month. Working with other Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y clubs, a Pre-Legislative Conference was held early this year as a preparatory session for the annual Youth and Government Conference. Speakers such as Reverend Russell Williams of the Inter-City Parish, Earl Reum, Amalia Marcet, and Anne McElhinney are also a part of the club's program.

"Get your day old doughnuts!" threatens Sally Morrison, JoAnn D'Amato, Lydia Szwec, Dorothy Davies, Laurel Weaver, Mary Jo Schaetzel, and Judy Davis.

Girls' Rifle Club

Amusement park rifle games don't seem to be enough for these girls. Donning their cutoffs and long dress shirts, the girls' rifle team fire up their skills as sharpshooters. There is a gung-ho spirit as they sharpen their shooting eye and polish their trigger fingers. Safety first is their motto, and they don't go on field trips until they learn the rudiments of carrying, cleaning, and storing their rifles. Some eventually get good enough to challenge the boys at their own game.

Miss Lois Patton marks passages from To Kill a Mockingbird to inspire the Girls' Rifle Club in marksmanship.

The Teen-Age Republican Club offers a a link between theory and practice: the concepts of government learned through history classes and newspapers and the working politics of American parties. The force and utility of the Teen-Age Republicans may be vouched for by the great demand for TAR workers during the last election and by the interest Governor-elect Love took in meeting East's club last January. The TARS gain their enthusiasm and support from a common interest of nearly all teen-agers: talking politics.

Dick Field, expert on Communist propaganda methods, explains infiltration.

Boys' Bowling Club

Bowling offers three of the major attractions to any sport: relaxation, enjoyment, and acquisition of skill. Forgetting their school-time frustrations and inhibitions, members of East's Boys' and Girls' Bowling Clubs loudly express themselves with appropriate shouts and cries during their weekly meetings at Dahlia Lanes. As the bowlers pick up points and pointers, the best of them meet with other high school bowling clubs for unofficial matches.

Mr. Donald Smith hopes his luck will change if he goes barefooted.

SkEast

Powder snow and sunshine and pretty girls and endless slopes are a part of the skiing which Skeast brings to its members. They encourage both competitive and recreational skiing, introduce modern techniques, provide the latest ski news, and diminish the fears of snow bunnies. The club schedules weekly ski trips during the winter and spring months with time trials for those who wish to compete in the annual Mile High and Dartmouth Meets. From these trials, Skeast forms and sponsors boys' and girls' racing teams. To acquaint the members with foreign ski areas, skiing techniques, and trick skiing, Skeast presents varied ski movies throughout the year.

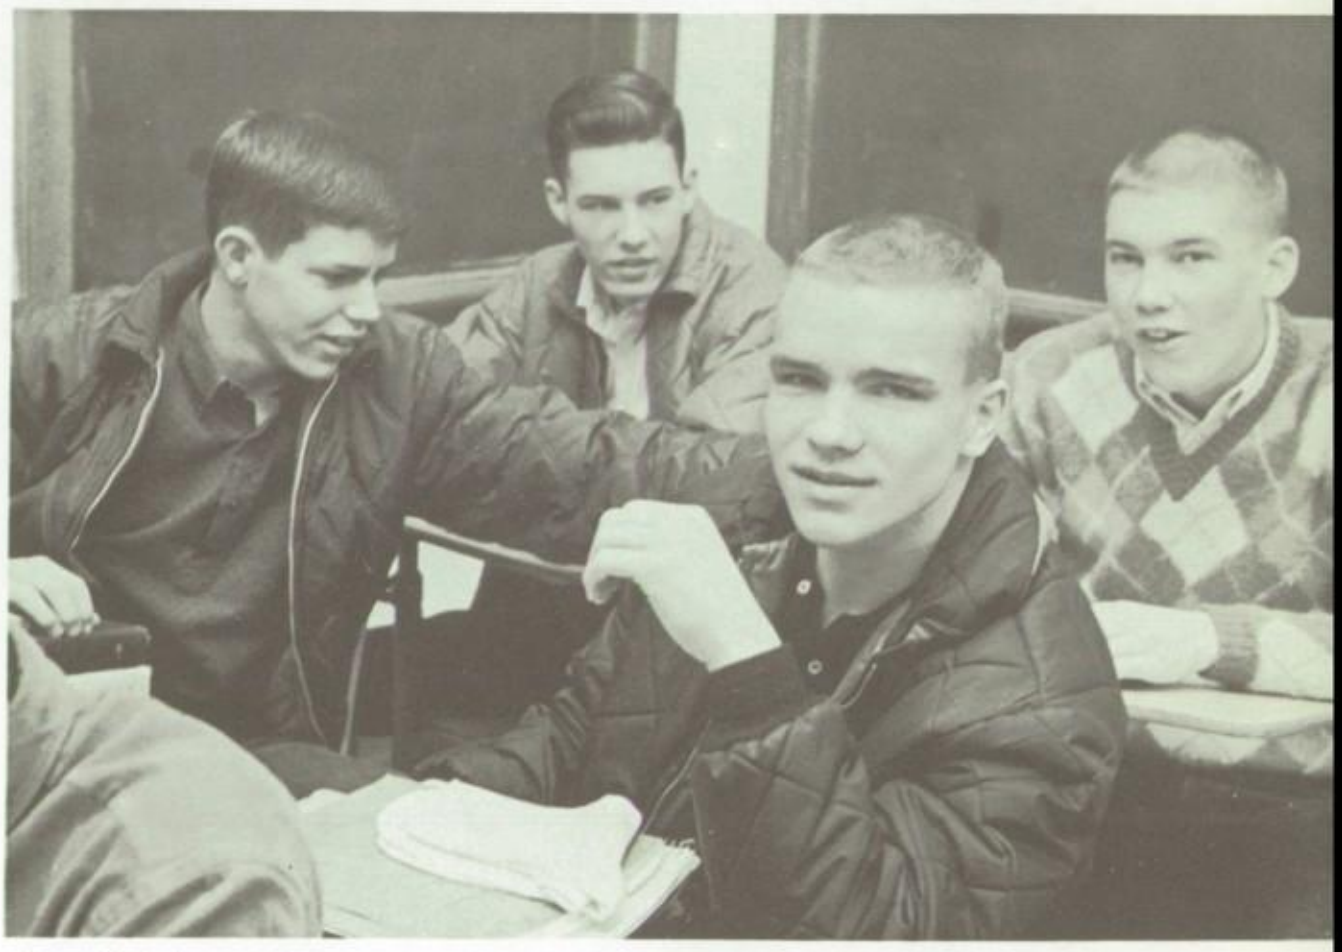
Key Club is a boys' service club affiliated with Kiwanis and dedicated to helping the school in any way possible. Its primary service project each year is publishing a student directory, beloved by boys in need of the dates and phone numbers. This year the club voted to use the profits to establish a scholarship fund to aid a deserving senior in meeting his college expenses.



Several of the members — Gary Bloom, Jeff Haynes, Jim Blaschke, and Dave Babbs — pay close attention to the words of their leaders.

One of W.J.'s most important functions is to support the teams at the games. The block of red and white can be seen at all major contests.

White Jackets

The girls you see every Friday clad in white jackets and red skirts portray the typical and ideal East High angel, known as the White Jacket. She is chosen as a member of the pep club for her eagerness to encourage school spirit, her lively character, and good academic record.

This year the White Jackets have faithfully attended the athletic games as a part of promoting school spirit. They served the school by ushering at the All-School Show and Council Capers, by sponsoring the annual Father-Daughter Banquet, by taking part in a Christmas project, and by showing their ability to drill at the games during half-time. This year their theme for the drills was dance crazes: the twist, the charleston, and others.

During the first semester, White Jackets meet every day in a regular gym class. During the second semester they have business meetings on Friday.

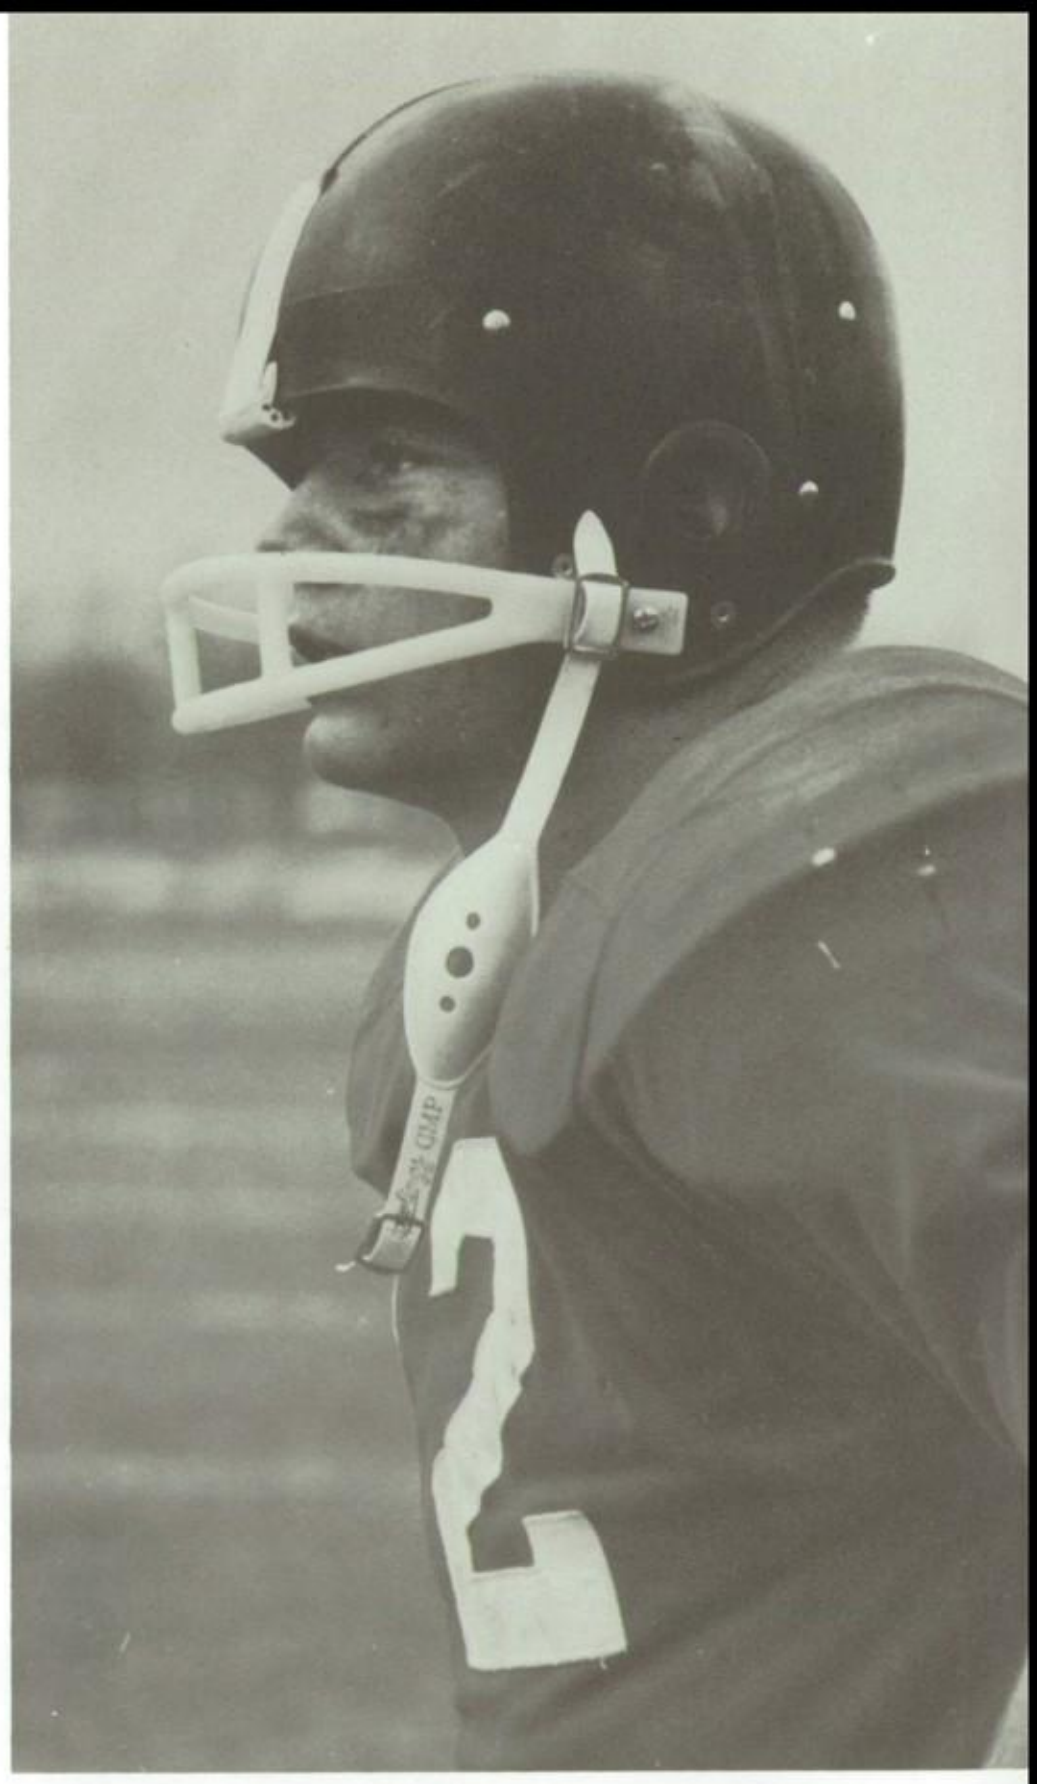
Football

Cherub football fortunes surpassed most expectations this year. The Big Red football team pulled one of its many upsets by overcoming the Lakewood Tigers 28-20, giving East its first state championship in thirteen years. This triumph displayed to the unbelieving sports experts that Panek's Angels were far from mediocre. After racing to an early 14-0 lead in the first quarter with Al Dertinger, Ad Lopez, and Walt Oliver doing the scoring, the Angel team withstood the powerful second half rush put on by the Tigers. Within five minutes following the start of the second half, the Cherub's margin was cut to one point, 14-13. Characterizing the fine play of the team all year, the Angels rose to the occasion to nail down the victory with scores by Ad Lopez and Jim Blaschke in the final stanza of this locally televised game. Skip Hilton was singled out for special praise by Coach Panek for his exceptional blocking.

Possibly the toughest challenge this season was against the heavily favored Aurora Trojans. Aurora was favored by two touchdowns to extinguish the Angel's title hopes. The Trojans overpowered the Angels throughout the first half to gain a 7-0 advantage. The inspired Angels came back with a vicious second-half rally. Led by the fine offensive and defensive play of Dertinger, the Big Red proved to a capacity crowd of 8,000 at DPS stadium that the Angels were superior. The victory can best be described as a team effort with the defense showing special prowess. In the final league game of the season, playing for the city championship, the underrated Angel defensive team came through with its usual excellent performance in holding the explosive Thomas Jefferson offense to only thirteen points while the ever-potent Angel offense ran up thirty-four points.



Signal caller Skip Hilton projects grim determination as he contemplates the fate of the Angels during the state championship game against the Lakewood Tigers.

Arch-rival George Washington proved to be a worthy foe in one of East's most critical games of the season and left the field at the half-time intermission with a 7-6 lead over the Cherubs. The Angels, making their own breaks in the second half, reversed the momentum of the Patriots with a fumble recovery by Jim Blaschke and pass interceptions by X. Nady and Walt Oliver. Lopez and Blaschke, scoring a final pair of touchdowns, left the Angels on top 19-7 as the gun sounded.

All-State end Al Dertinger boots his second successful extra point to put the Angels out in front at half time, 14-0. X. Nady holds.

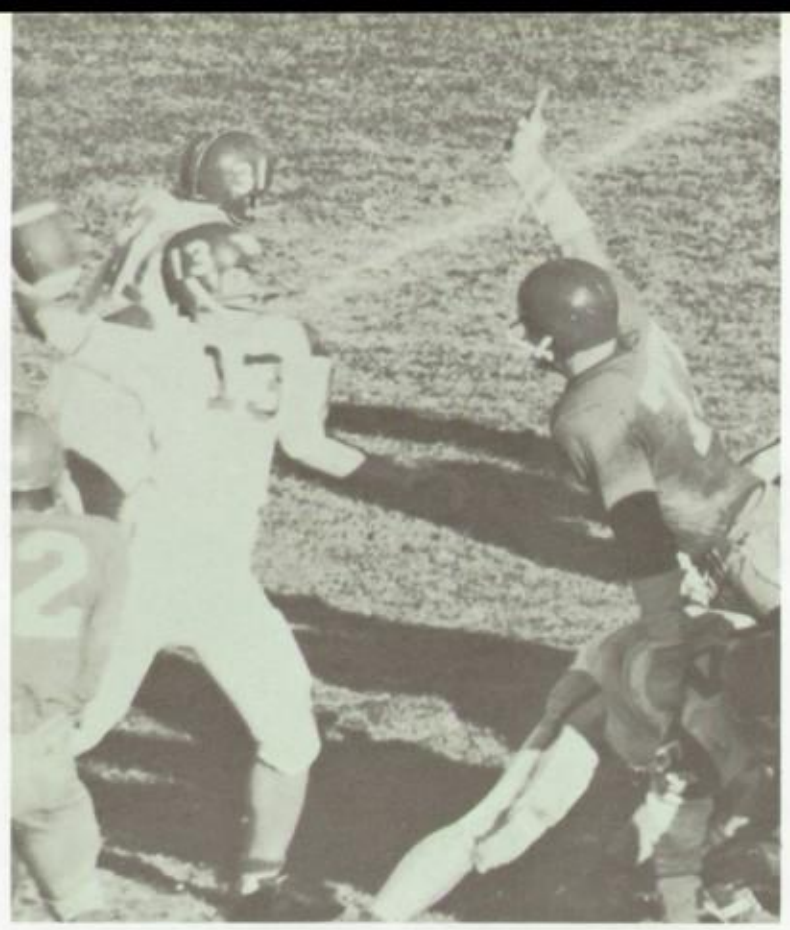
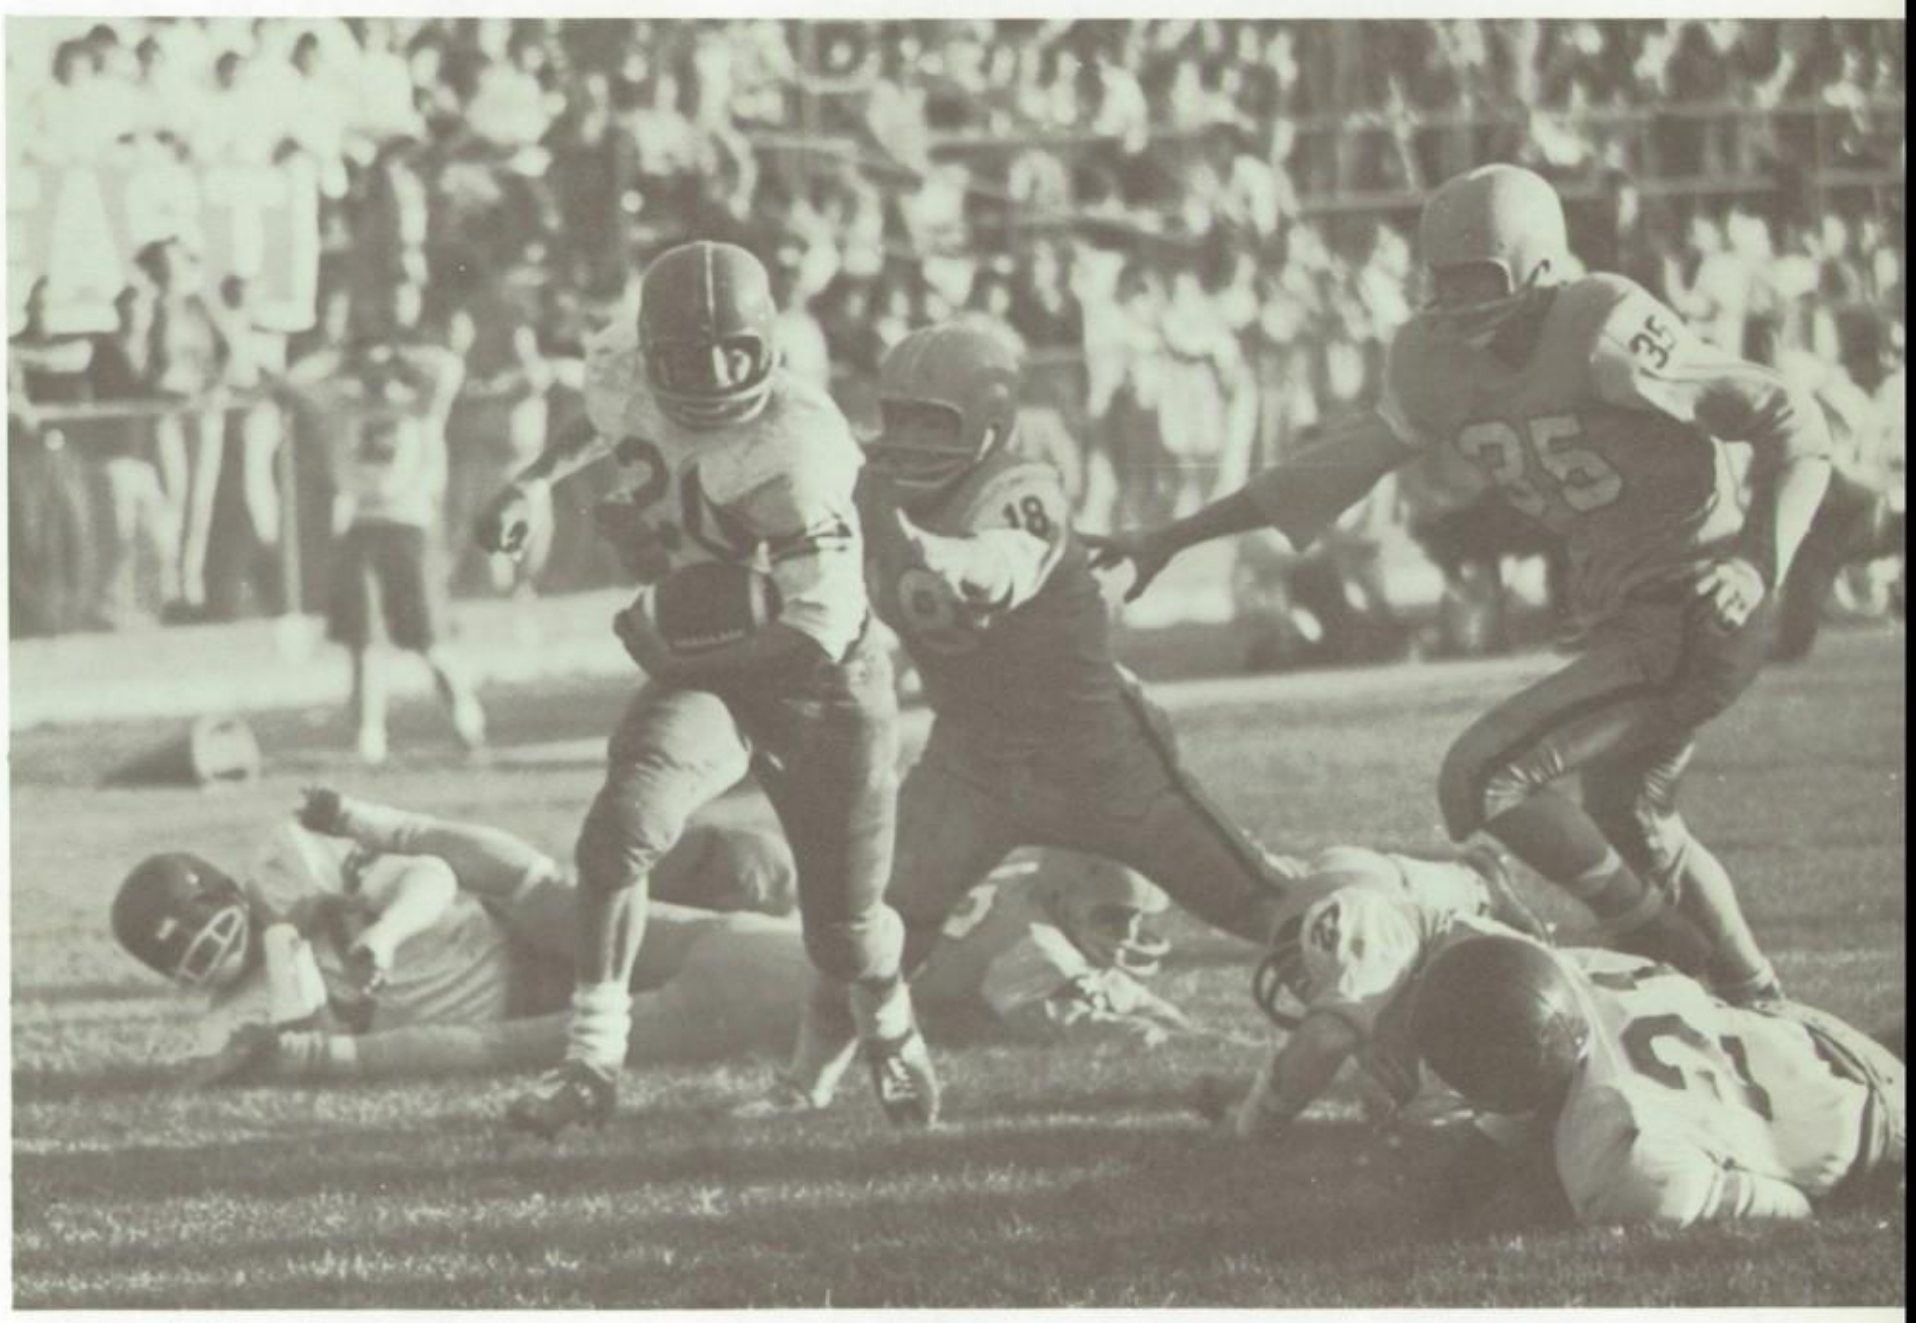
Ad Lopez is brought down by a Lakewood Tiger after a nine-yard jaunt to the Lakewood 28-yard line.

The sports public often overlooks the defense when considering the potential and ability of a good football team. This year it couldn't be overlooked. Coach Paul Coleman put together a defense which ranked a close second in the city in average yardage allowed per game and came through with many of the top defensive stands and clutch plays seen in the league in quite a few years.

An excellent backfield has always been characteristic of East High football teams and this year was no exception. Training of these backfields is the job of Coach Myron Craig. Many an overconfident back has been put in his place by Mr. Craig's well-directed quips.



"Get him, Big Sid," is the cry as Dave "Big Sid" Sidwell (77) and Chuck Williams (82) pour in to put the clamps on George Washington quarterback Pete Fowler.



Ad Lopez, led by the blocking of Walt Oliver (21) and Skip Hilton (12), penetrates the Thomas Jefferson defense for a substantial gain as East beat T.J. 34-13 to roll to its fifteenth city championship under Coach Panek.

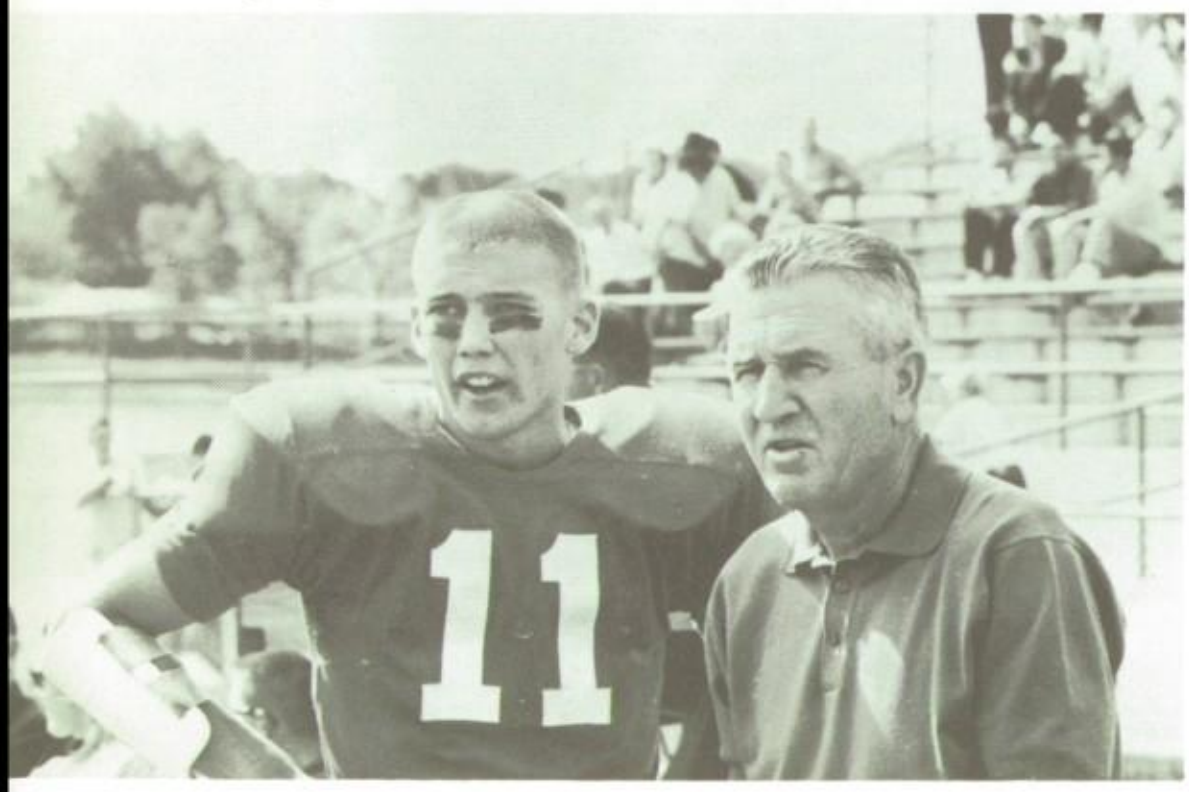
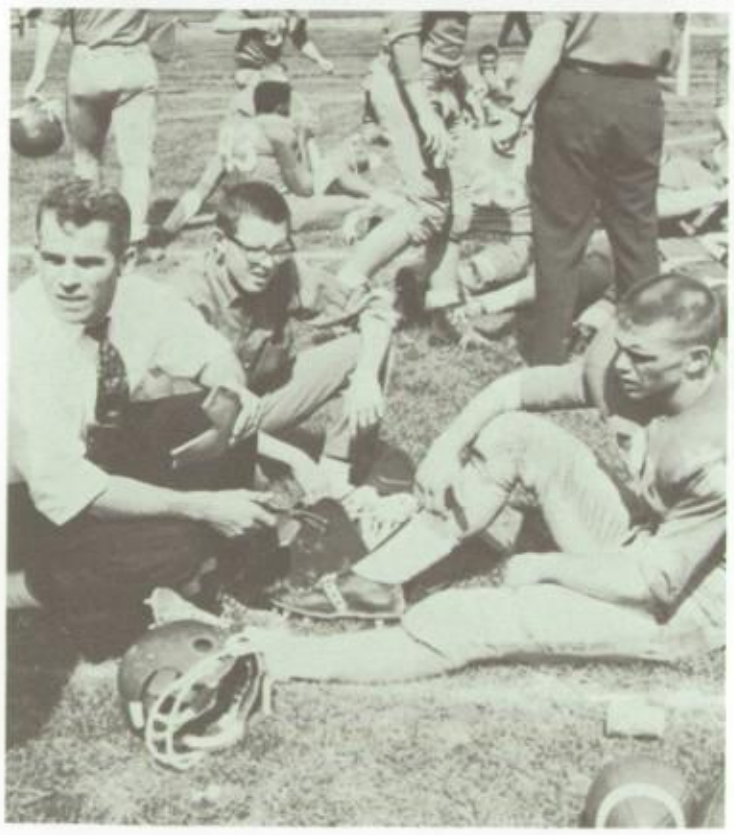
Coach Panek happily accepts the game ball from an exuberant Coach Redic after East's 14-7 victory over Aurora in the State semi-final game.



Coach Panek explains game strategy to tailback Dave Babbs as the Big Red team powered past the Abraham Lincoln Lancers 19-0 in the early stages of our successful campaign for the state crown.

Coach Pat Panek, dean of prep grid coaches, has been coaching East gridders for the past 24 years. During his tenure he has compiled an almost unbelievable record of 147-25-11. This superb coaching has brought 15 city titles and two Class AAA state titles to East, including this year's state championship team. The amiable Mr. Panek, with his football know-how, has been an inspiration to all those with whom he comes in contact.

East's brawny end-coach, Kirk Hinderlider, has special pride in this year's championship team. He was a member of the East team of 1949, which won the only other state football championship in the school's history. He was also named to the all-state team that year as an end. The caliber of East's ends can be directly attributed to this fine athlete.



Gathering information about the opposing team from the press box is Coach Hinderlider, while Steve Lindsey (80) and Jim Boslough discuss the progress of the game.

Coach James Redic, a native of Pennsylvania, certainly must be rated as the top sophomore coach in the city. In the past two years his teams have won five out of a possible six major sport championships. Coach Redic, along with coach Myron Craig, man East's scouting system with near perfection. Although the job of coaching the sophomore teams is often underrated, it is an important link in the development of championship teams.

Tennis

After East's netmen battled their way to third place in the Denver Prep League, the state tournament saw their rackets take new life as they swept to an unexpected runner-up position, leaving exalted George Washington tangled in the nets. Only a couple of points kept the Angels from cheating South out of the championship. Junior Alan Loeb climaxed an excellent season by capturing the number one singles title, and Howard Holme placed third in the number two singles division. Tracy Leonard and Kuka Molioo had tough luck in the quarterfinals of the doubles competition, but still gained valuable points for the Angels.

Coach Lawrence Garrett gained the experience necessary to produce fine cross country and tennis teams in both high school and college. At Princeton, he ran varsity cross country for three years and also played varsity tennis for the Tigers.

Alan Loeb, state champion, demonstrates his effective forehand slam as he wins his match 6-2, 6-1 against Tom Wertz of West.

East's golfers drove, chipped, and putted their way to fourth in city competition this year. Although there was a great lack of experience, the team fared well against other schools. In the match with Washington for all-city honors, East was defeated on the eighteenth green by one put despite the efforts of Captain Ray Benton and Ed Skeeters.

Basketball

The Angels got off to a slow start, winning two and losing two in the pre-season games. East opened the league with a flurry by beating heavily favored Manual, 60-54. At the end of the first round of league play East, to everyone's amazement, was in second place with five wins and two losses.

The second round of league play almost put an end to the hopes that the Angels had for winning a berth in the state tournament. The Big Red team lost to South, Abraham Lincoln, and West. With their record now at six wins and five losses the Angels rebounded and put the North Vikings in their place, 54-52. Thomas Jefferson beat East for the second time the following week, and the hopes began to dwindle.

However, East finished in a tie for second with Manual and a playoff game was necessary to determine the team that would enter the state tournament as second place representative for the Denver Public League. East won, 51-50, and the long fight to the state finals began.

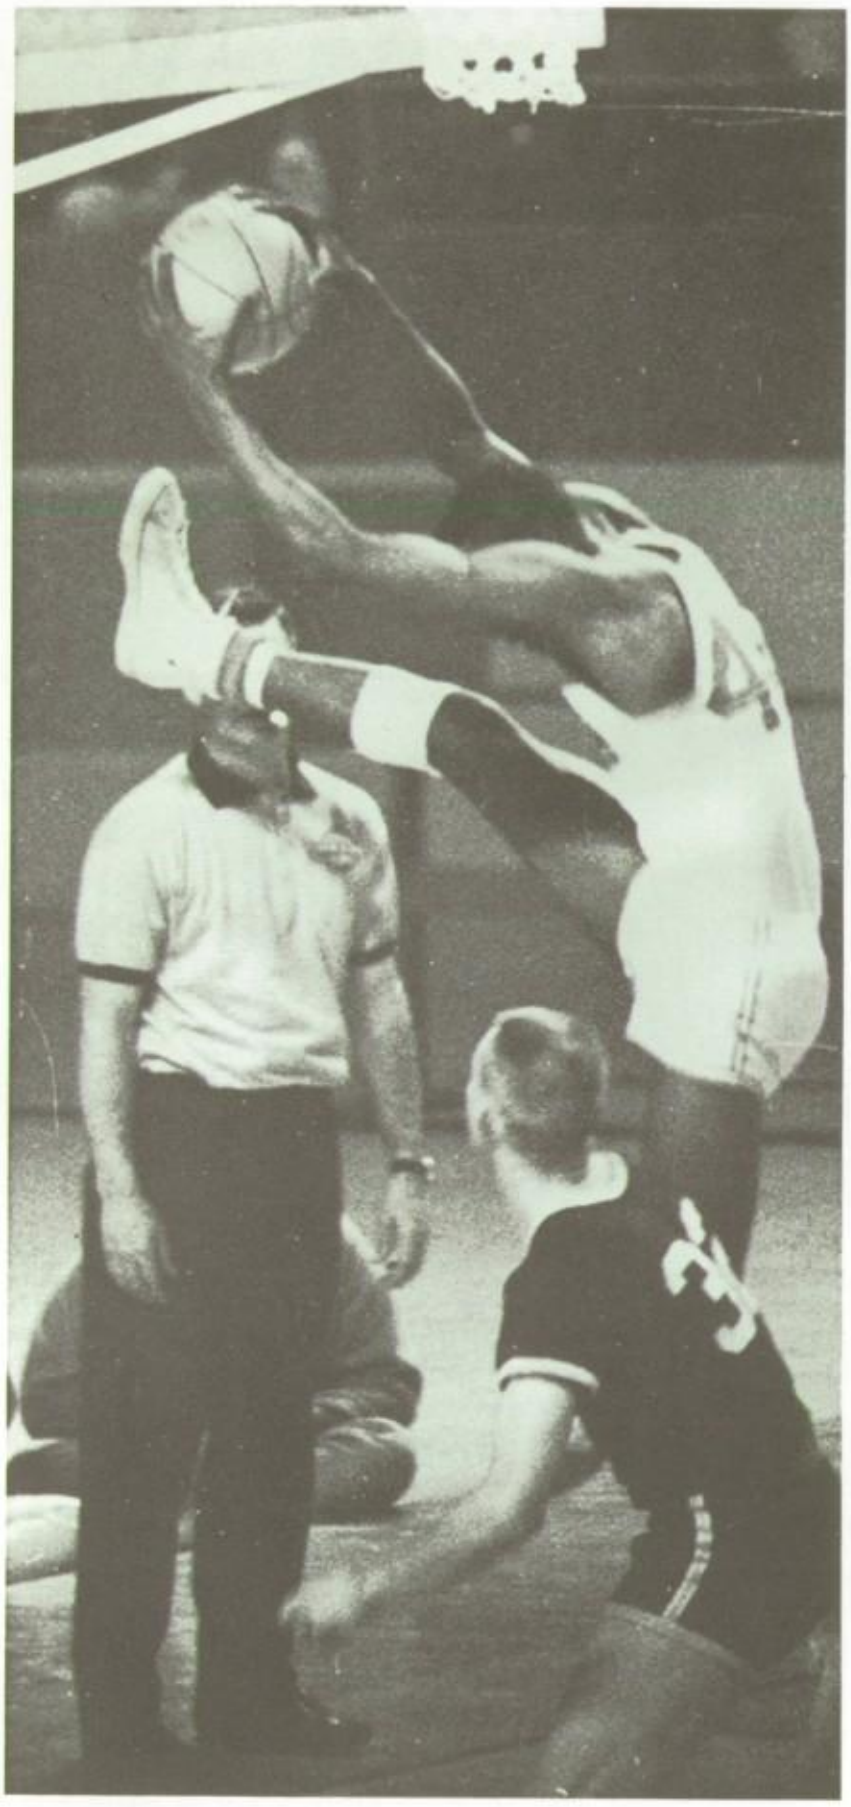
After defeating Lakewood in a regional game, the Angels faced Cherry Creek in the quarterfinals of the state playoffs. Although suffering from an acute case of stage-fright, East beat Cherry Creek, 44-43. The following night the come-from-behind cherub team did a turnabout, cured its first night jitters, and trounced a favored Aurora team, 67-49.

The Wheat Ridge Farmers, after struggling by the South High Rebels, faced the small and oft-beaten East High team. The Angels proved to be worthy opponents.

The East starting team, all juniors, led the Farmers at halftime by a slim margin. In the third quarter the Farmers turned the tide and went out in front by ten points. Then the Angels started to come back and whittled the Wheat Ridge lead to one point with 12 seconds left in the game. The Angels, trying to get possession of the ball, fouled, and Wheat Ridge sank both foul shots. The Angels missed their chance for a last second basket and lost 67-64, giving Wheat Ridge the state championship and the much underrated Angels a runner-up title.

J. R. Craig (44) goes high for a rebound in the state semi-final against Aurora. J. R. was the big gun for East in this game, scoring thirty points and rebounding viciously as East won 67-49.

Basketball



"We'll get them next year," is the primary thought of the East High team as they graciously accept the state runner-up trophy.

Chuck Williams tosses in a left-handed layup against Wheat Ridge. Chuck was an All-City and All-State selection this year as he led the Angels to a very successful season.

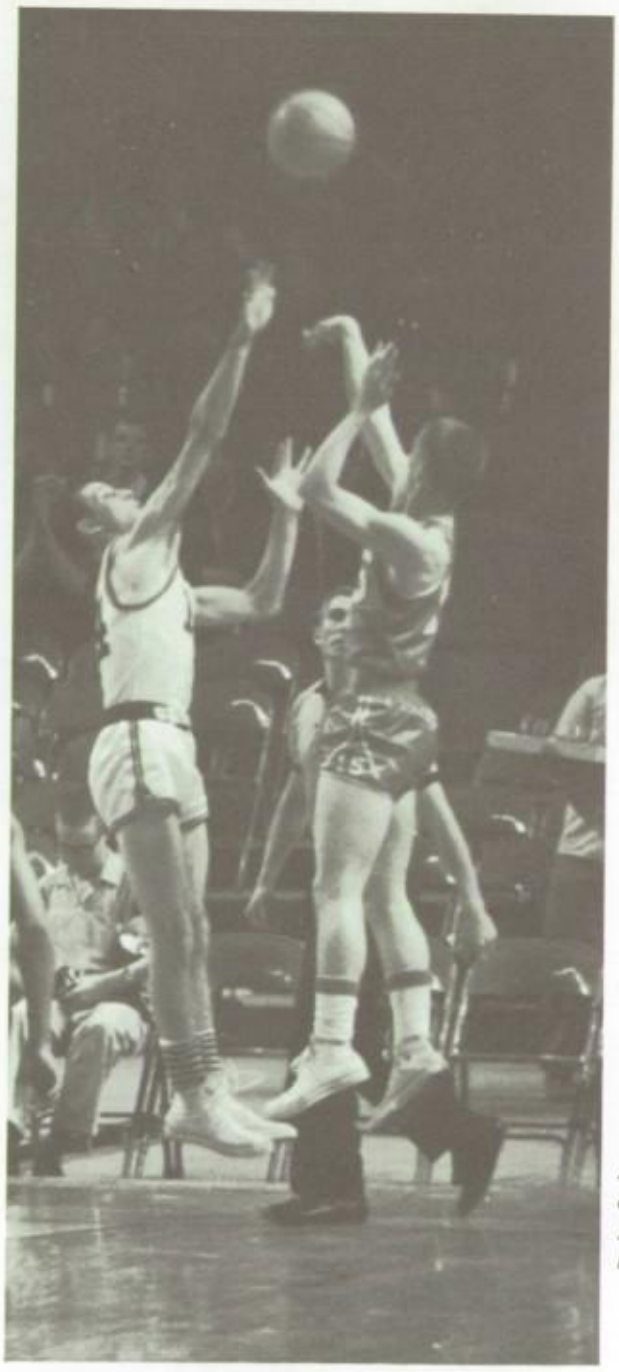
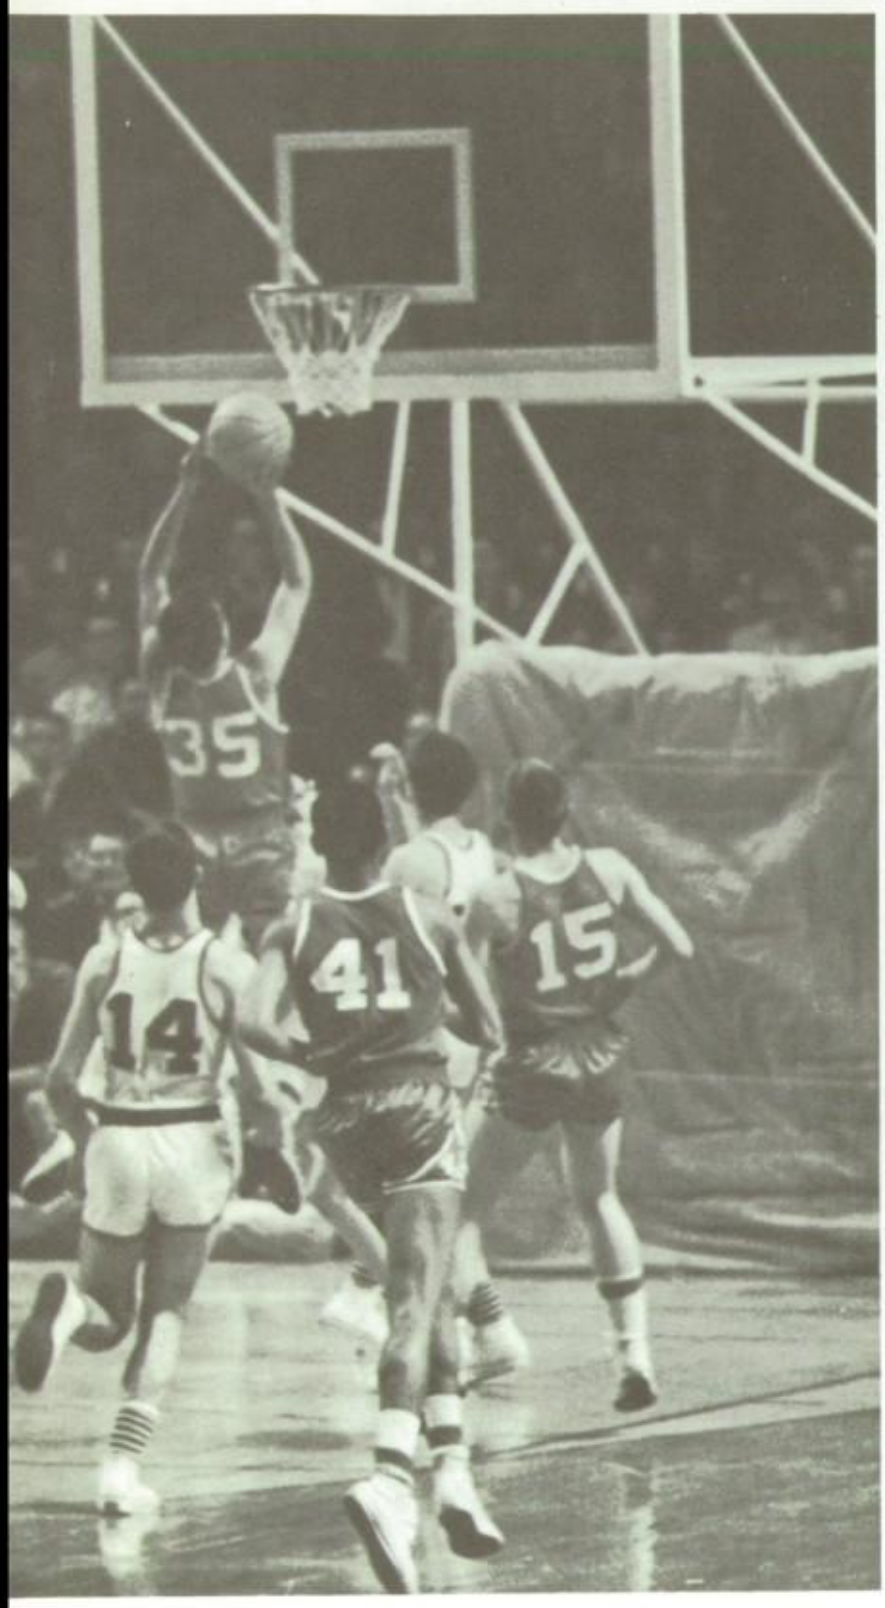
Chuck Williams (40) drives down the middle for an easy basket during the first Abraham Lincoln game. East triumphed over the Lancers 41-40.



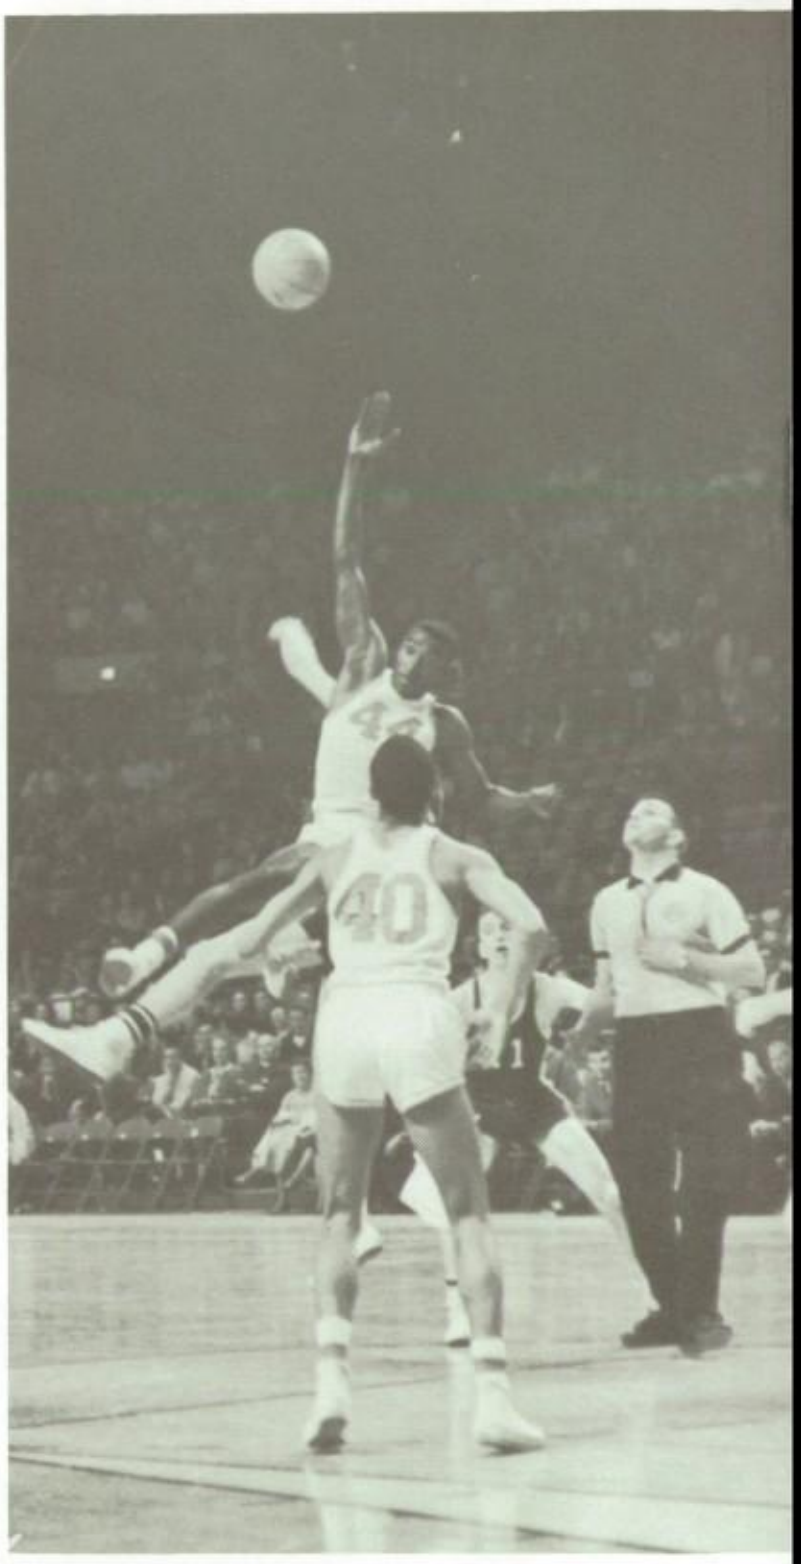
Coach Paul Coleman gives last second assistance to the Angel team as they take to the floor to face another opponent.

Dave Babbs (15) shoots a jump shot over the outstretched arm of a Wheat Ridge defender. East lost a heartbreaker to the Farmers 67-64.

Basketball



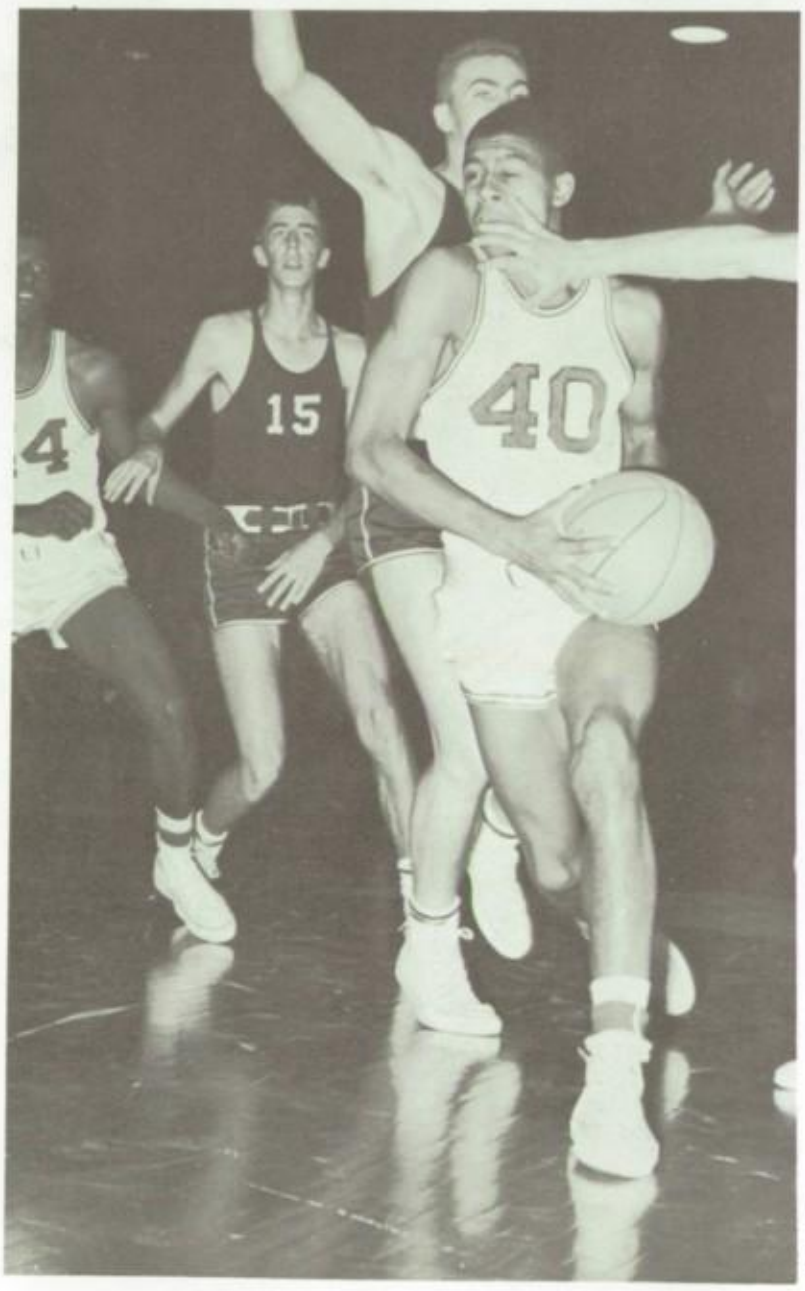
It's two points for East and X. Nady (35) as the Angels went down to defeat in the state finals with Wheat Ridge. Chuck Williams (41) and Dave Babbs (15) look on.



East gets the tip as J. R. Craig (44) bats the ball to Chuck Williams (40) in the first game of the state tournament against Cherry Creek. East defeated Cherry Creek in an overtime 44-43.

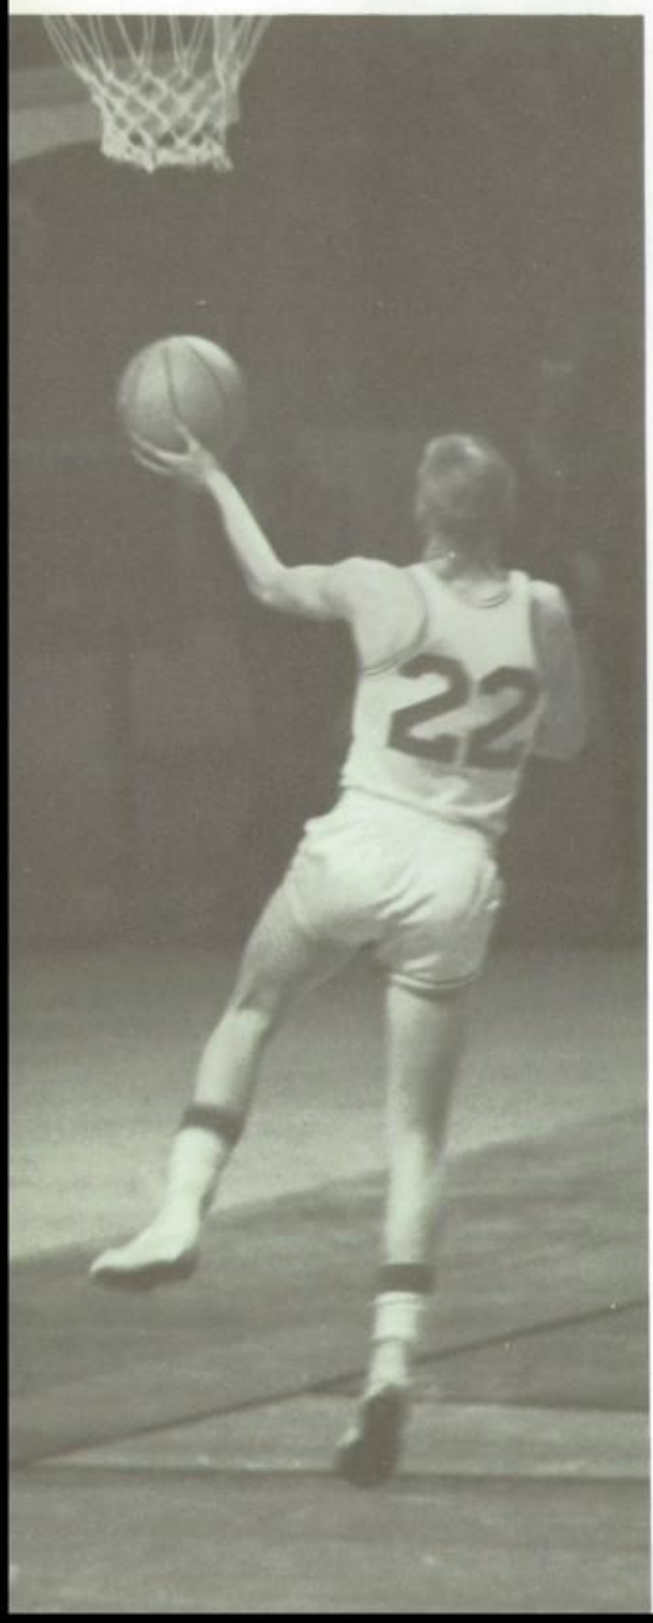
Don Canaday (33) stops a Lincoln opponent in the backcourt with his fine defense.

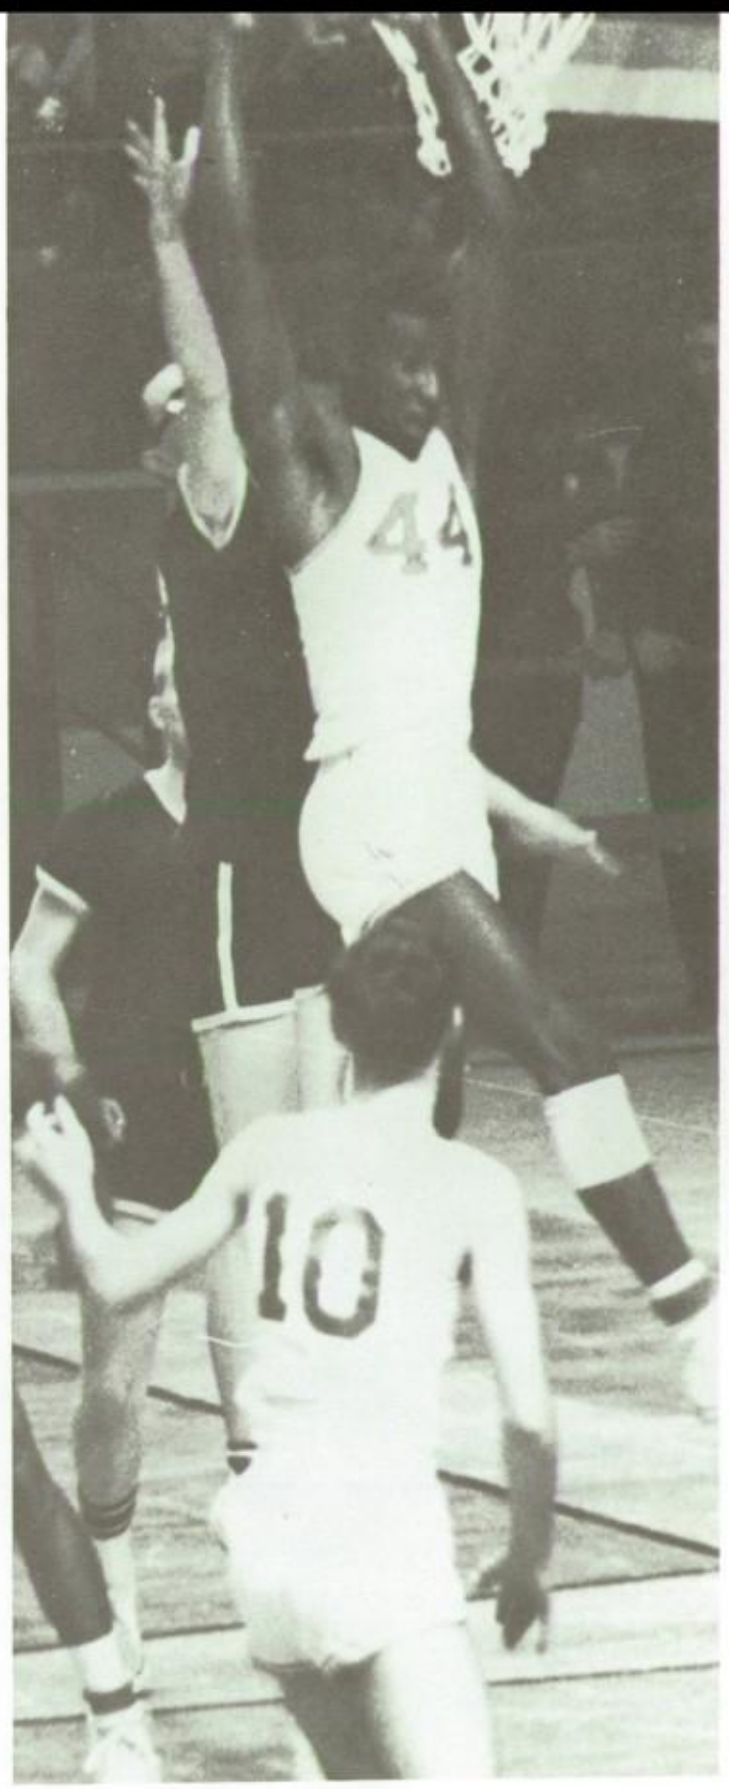
The Angels march to the middle of the court so that they may receive their second place honors.



Chuck Williams (40) drives down the middle for an easy basket during the first Abraham Lincoln game. East triumphed over the Lancers 41-40.

Tipping the ball, Don Canaday (32) controls the tip-off to J. R. Craig.





Going high for a rebound, J. R. Craig (44) takes command of the situation once again. Fritz Sudholt (10) waits patiently.

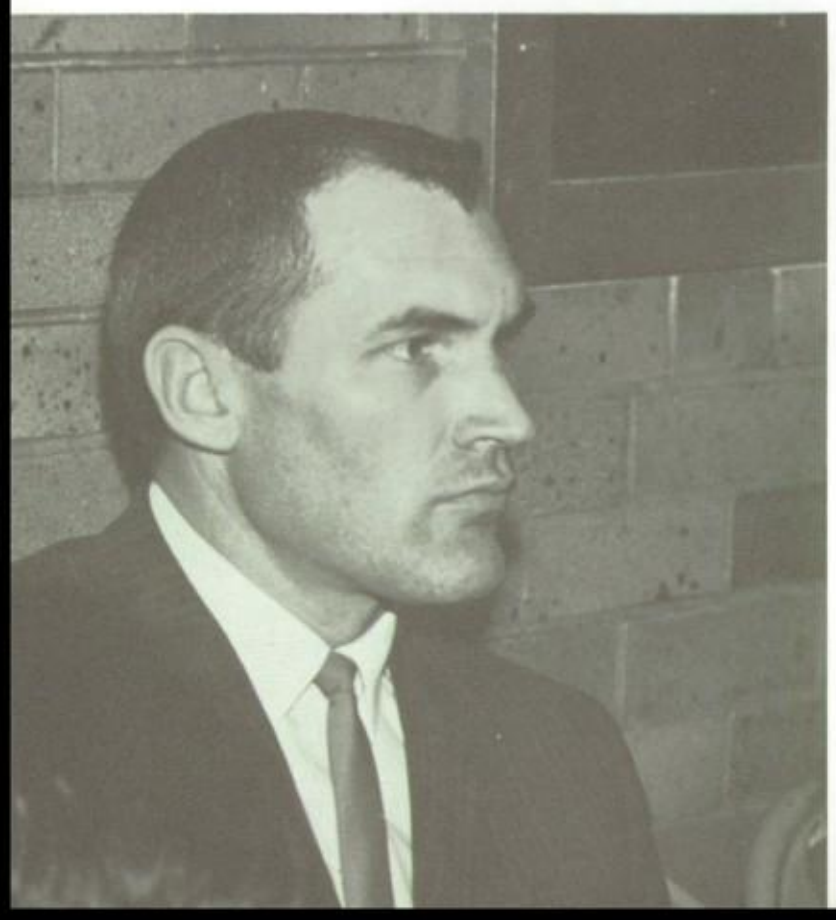
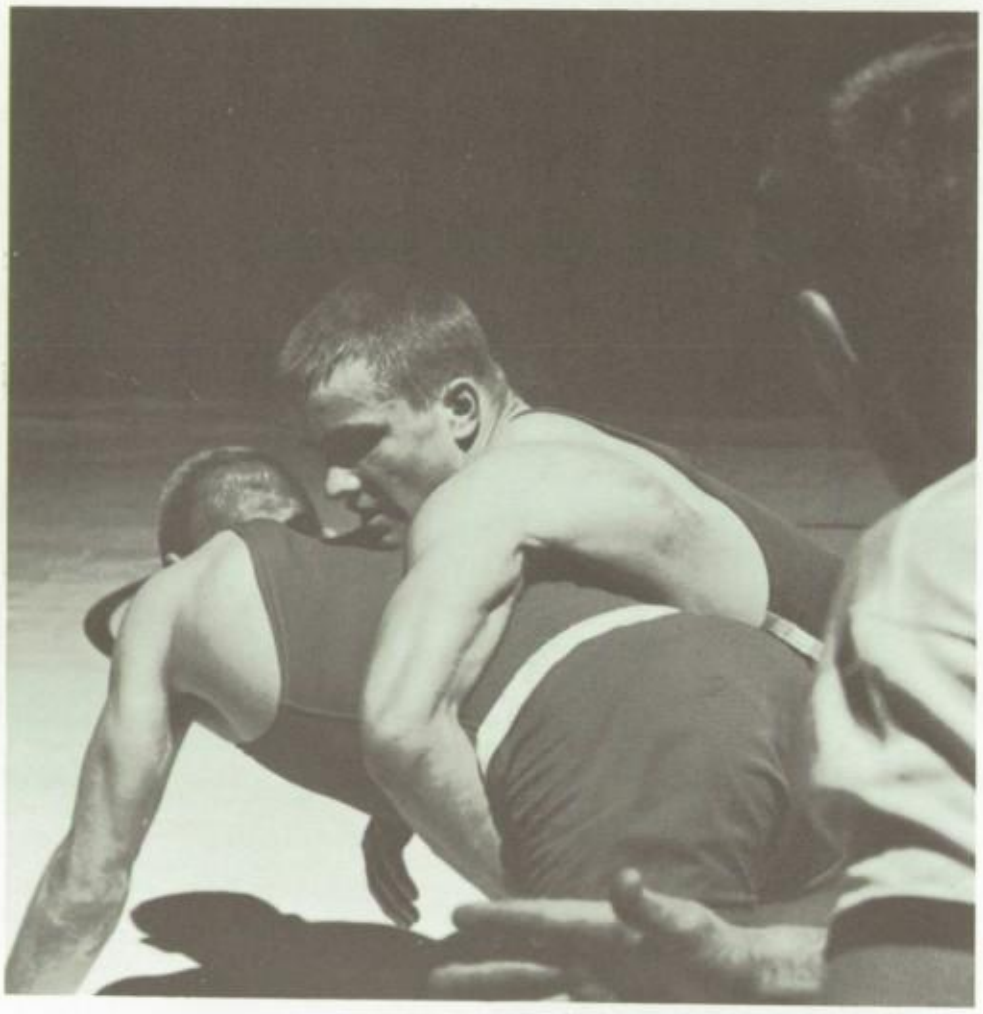
Larry Thede, East's 120 pounder, works for a pin against his Arvada opponent. Thede wound up losing the match by a single point in one of the best displays of wrestling by an East wrestler this year.

Wrestling

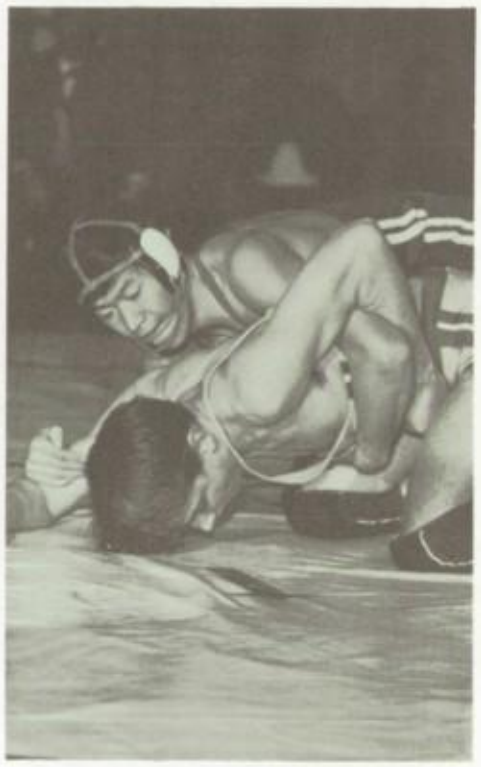
East's wrestlers did not fare too well this year because of the lack of experience and of a sound nucleus. In dual meets, the Angel grapplers lost six and tied one, but came in a solid sixth in the city tournament. East sent two wrestlers to state, Rudy Fong at 112 pounds and captain Jim Blaschke at 145 pounds, where neither met with any success. Coach Jim Coleman, a former East High grappler and city champion himself, has quite a number of promising sophomores and juniors returning next year, and a first division finish is imminent.



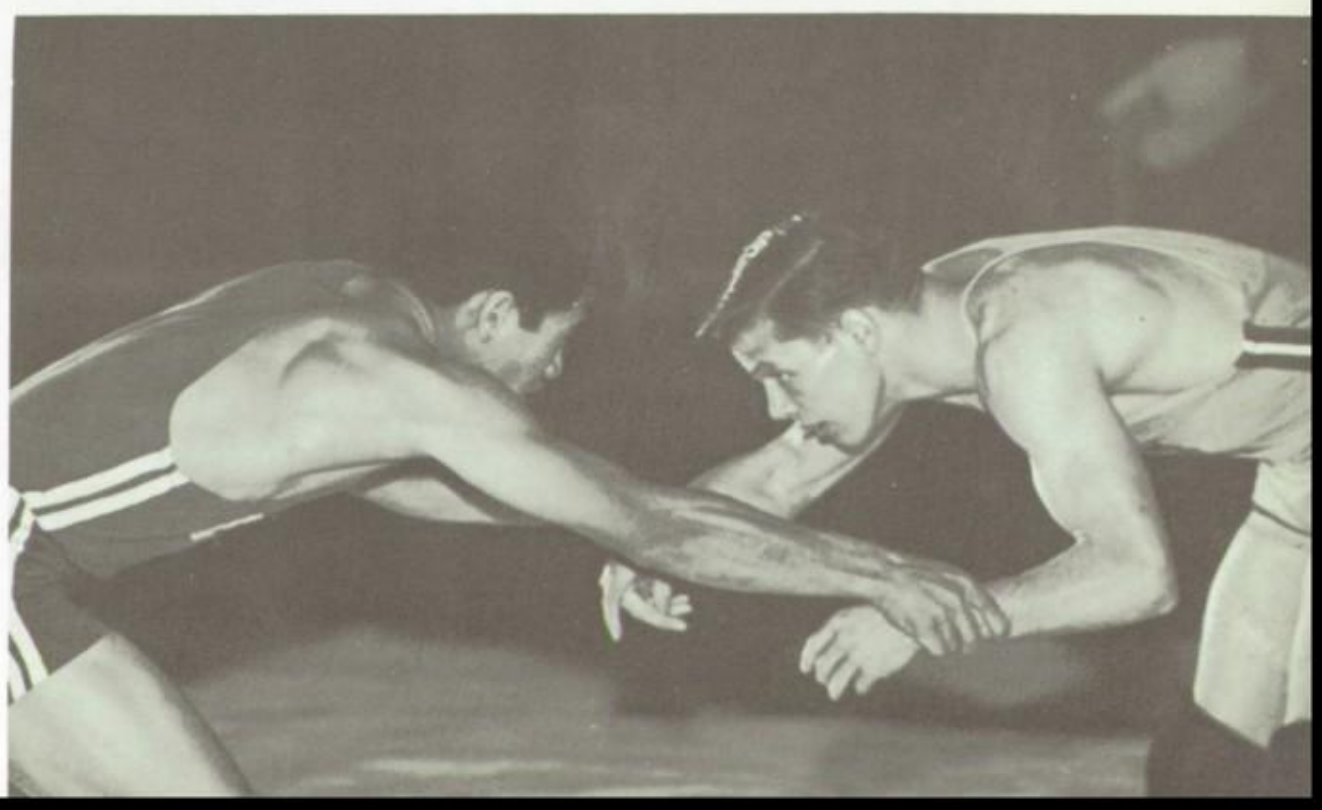
Coach Jim Coleman takes a somber view of the progress of the Arvada match which East lost by a wide margin.



Captain Jim Blaschke has the advantage over Arvada's Ken Elliott before falling to the state 145 pound champion 9-2.



Riding his North opponent is Angel grappler Bryan Loui.



Moving for position are East's Kuka Molioo (left) and Sam Drinnon of North — which Drinnon won in one of the year's most exciting matches.

Junior Rudy Fong works to break down his North foe on his way to a second-place finish in city and a state tournament berth.

Fast action highlighted this 120-pound match pitting Larry Thede and an excellent Arvada grappler.

Graduating senior Bob Stribling works over his opponent from North in a match which ended in a 2-2 draw.

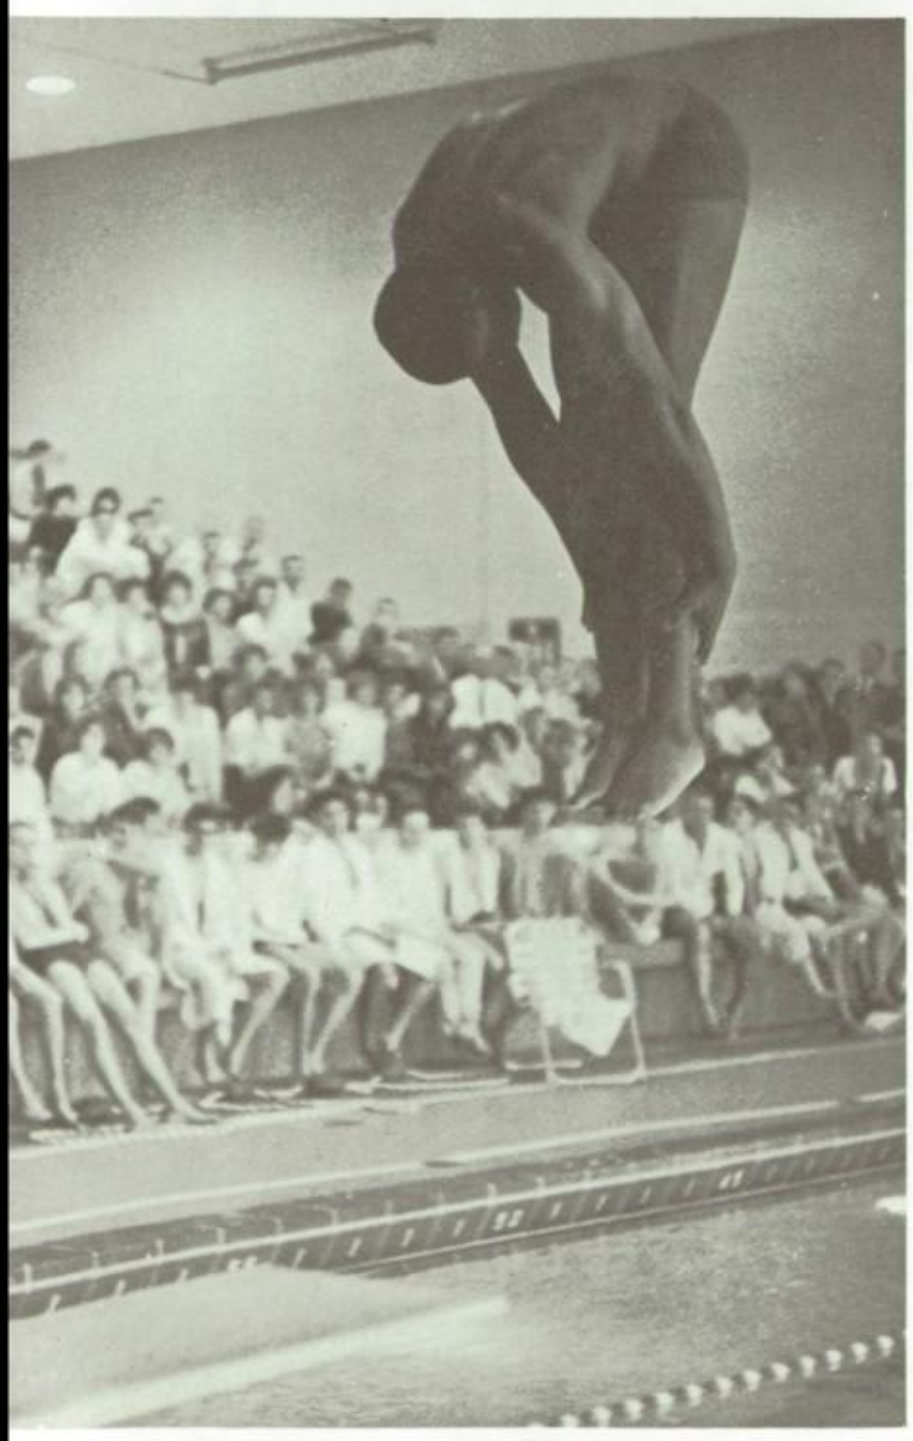
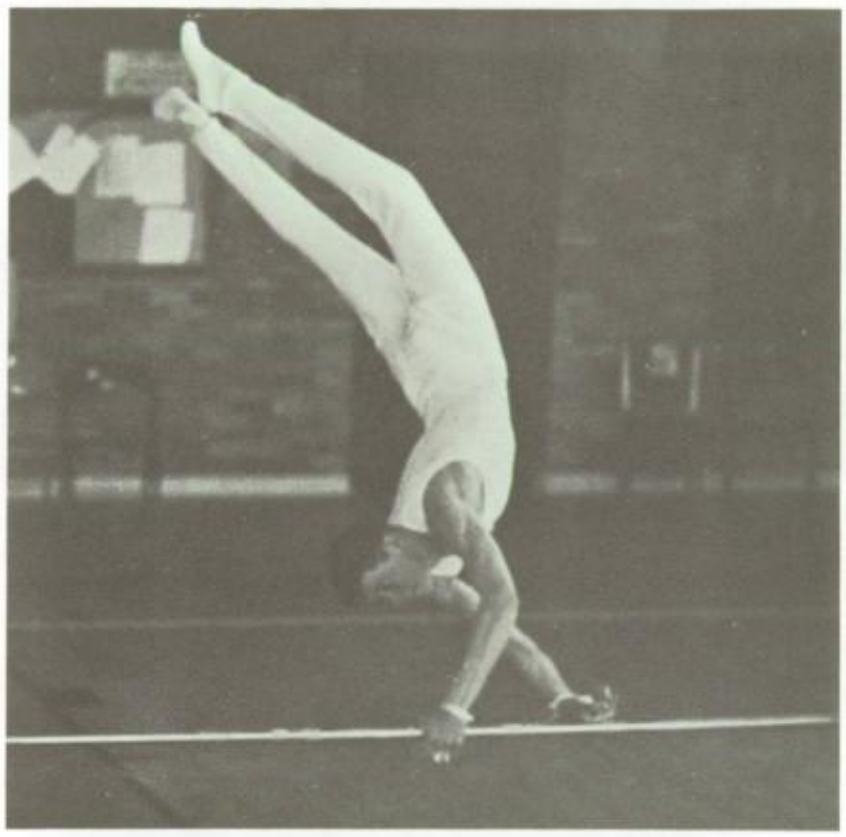
Although it lacked experience this year, East's swimming team captured third in both city and state competition. Our swimmers concluded the '63 season with a state record in the two hundred yard freestyle relay. Ed Adams, Mike Hendryson, Mike McComas and Bink Staub, captain, finished with the astonishing time of 1:39.1, thus topping the previous record by 3.5 seconds. Dave Frescoln in the four hundred yard freestyle, Mike Hendryson in the hundred yard freestyle, and Mike McComas in the fifty yard freestyle all captured third places at the state meet. Scott Manley took third place in the hundred yard butterfly and Lewis Kontnik came through second in the hundred yard backstroke. All of these accomplishments were attributed to the driving determination of the team and the experience and enthusiasm of Coach Moulton.



Although there are only two returning lettermen this year, East's gymnastics team is ranked among the top four contenders for the state crown. The gymnastics team lost their first meet to Aurora and came back strongly to defeat last year's champions Lincoln. Heading the squad for all-round proficiency are Jon Malander, captain; Jim Castles, and Gene Takamine. Coach William Holmes came to East this year from Colorado State University. He competed for East on our first three state gymnastics teams in '48, '49, and '50.



Dan McAndrew does a pirouette on the high bar during an early season meet.

Competing in one of the less glamorous but more difficult gymnastics events is Fred Duncan in a floor exercise.

Track

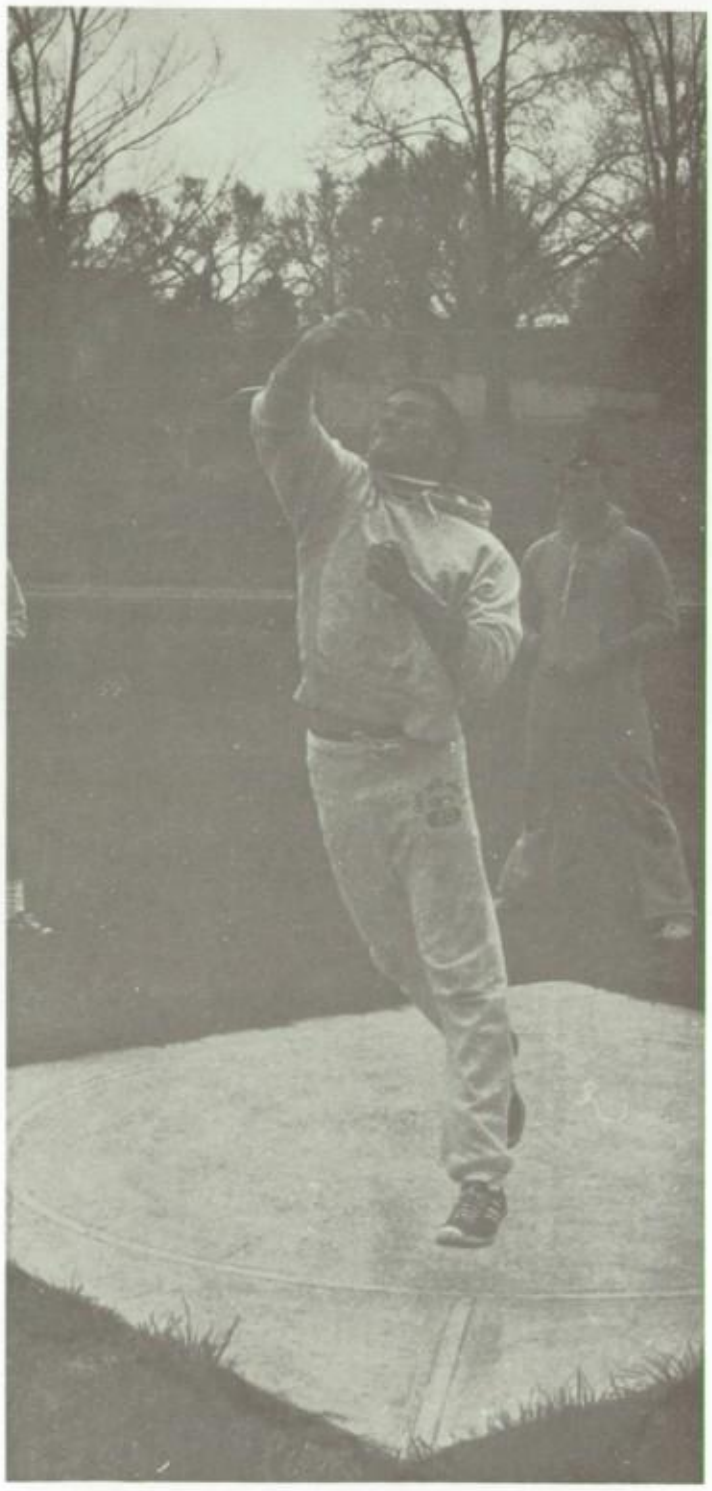
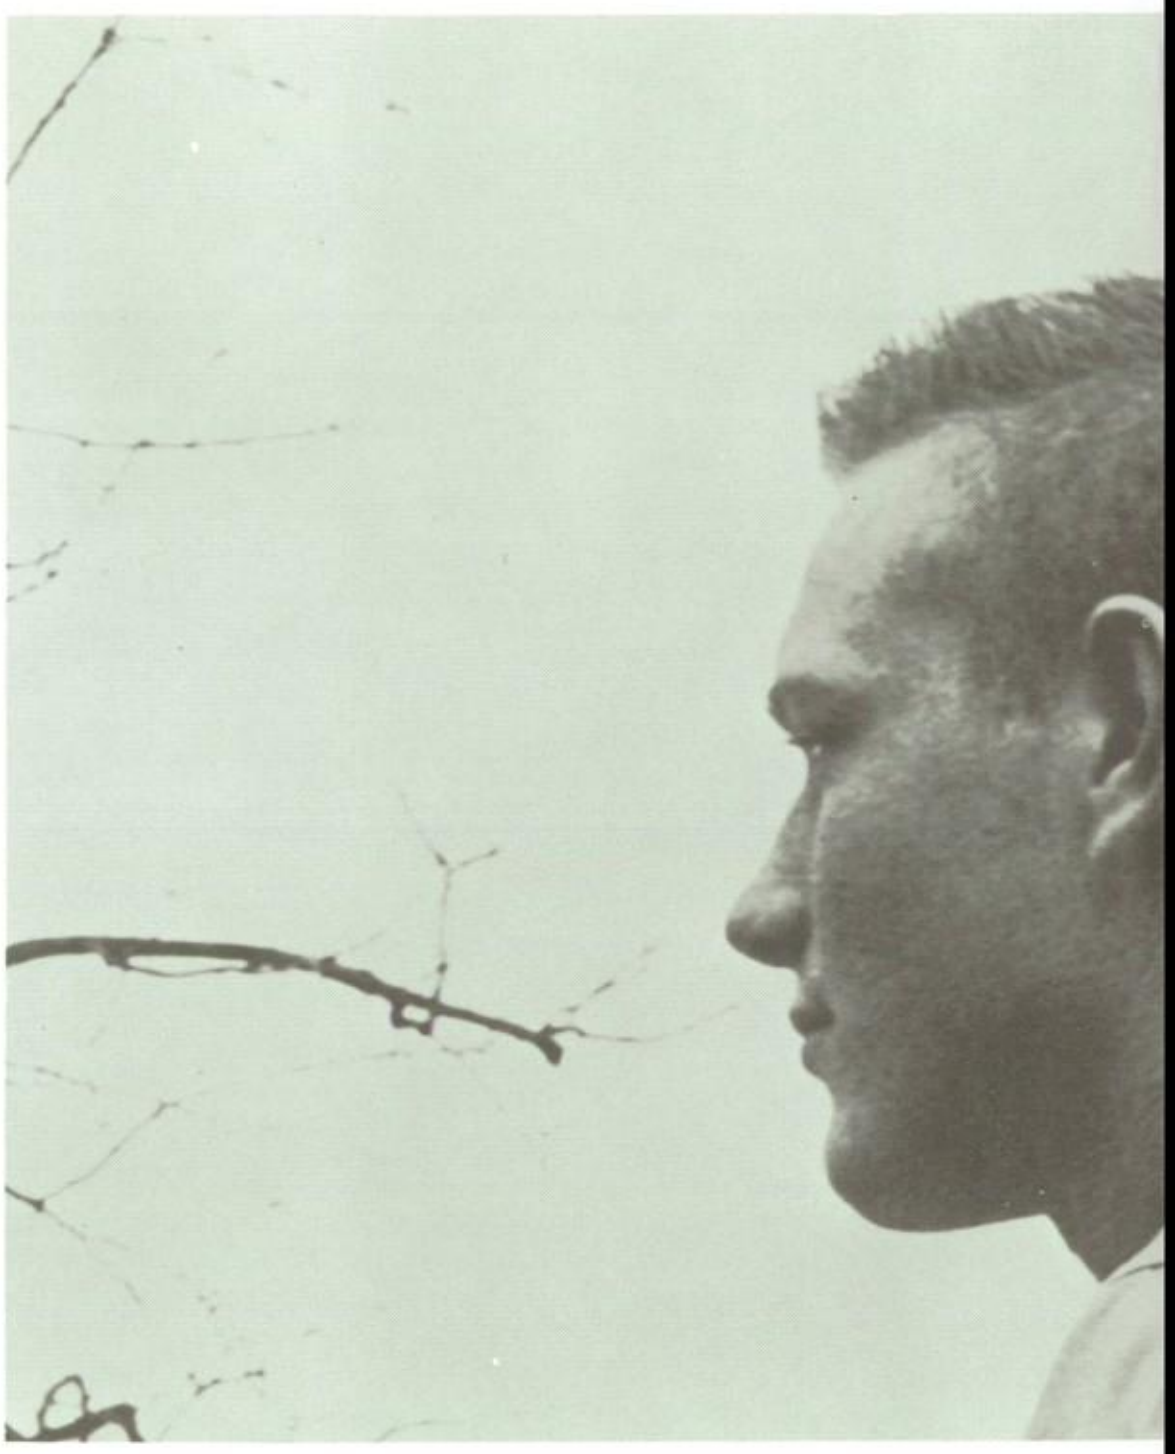
Ranking in the top three for city honors this year, the track team has proved itself capable of capturing the city crown. Although there are few returning lettermen, there are many promising newcomers that have made up for this weakness. The field events are the team's strongest areas. With Tom Halvorsen and Al Titus throwing the shot and discus and Bink Staub in the pole vault, the possibilities for state are good.

The team itself possesses great spirit and drive. All of this is attributed to the fine coaching and support of Coach Jack Moulton. His experience and guidance have led many teams in the past to both city and state titles.



East's state champion shot putter, Tom Halvorsen accompanies his mighty heave with a mightier roar.



Each individual is carved with perfection.

He is a singular being, unlike all others,

Yet he joins with them to share laughter, ideas, friendship . . .

And he is remembered in different ways . . .

By a friendly word or a certain smile or a distinctive walk.

He has his own feelings, his own beliefs, his own perspective.

He is remembered for being himself.

Gutenburg could scarcely have imagined the number of books required by East in a year. In addition to books that students buy, hundreds of textbooks and library books find their way into the building. These new arrivals are sent to the book room, affectionately called the "dungeon" by those working there. After they are stamped and catalogued, they are routed to their various destinations. In the library the books receive loving care from the librarians. Mrs. Clark, Miss Pearson, Miss Gillett, and Mrs. Martin spend as much time reprimanding delinquent borrowers as they do in maintaining the books.

Were it not for the indefatigability of the custodians, East could not be as beautiful and well kept as it is. Housework is child's play compared to the enormous job of cleaning such a widespread structure. The custodian is called upon to operate in such diversified fields as that of plumber, electrician, and mechanic. They take care of heating the school and keep the walks clear in the winter, and watering the lawns in the summer.

Satisfying teachers' and students' demands is an enormous headache for Mr. John Smyth.

The IBM office in room 304 is busy at all times of the year. In the fall, specially punched cards are fed through the machine to regulate the schedule of the teachers and the students. Then, individual programs are printed up by the machine and distributed to the students. By the time semester marks are due, it makes out all the report cards complete with parents' names ready to mail. The second semester, everything is repeated. Mr. John Smyth and his student helpers do all the red tape work which is necessary in order to figure out the machine's schedule.

Every student knows of the horrible scourge of tests, standardized or otherwise. After more than a decade of being tested, the high school student ends up as a set of statistics. These precious scores are guarded by the conscientious staff in the testing office which includes Miss Craven, Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Call and Mrs. Shakespeare. The California and Iowa tests, taken by juniors and sophomores, and the PAR test, which seniors must pass in order to graduate, are among those administered by the testing office.

Serving as go-between for the College Testing Service, the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, the American College Test, the College Entrance Examination Board, and the Achievements Tests, Miss Elizabeth Craven has many months of work, not to mention the administration of the school tests.

Junior Class Officers

"Should we approve the use of the optimum stratagem in the procrastination of the grossly misrepresented endeavors of the Junior class?" is one of many problems facing Mr. Lloyd Gnadt and Mrs. Elizabeth Pixley, Junior class sponsors.

East's corps of dedicated cheerleaders provide the impetus for school spirit by appearing at all athletic contests and organizing pep assemblies throughout the year. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Jim Coleman, the cheerleaders practice diligently for many hours in preparation for converting the hysteria of a tense game into recognizable encouragement for the team.
